Cold Warning Is For Zero To 10 Above

The Ohio weatherman brushed the groundhog aside this morning and issued a cold wave warning with a low of zero to 10 above expected tonight. Sunday will be "very cold," he added.

If the new cold wave materializes it will mean a sharp drop of possibly 40 degrees as today's high range will be 35 to 45 degrees.

The downtown had a mild 36 at 6 a.m. today with a light drizzle that froze on brick-surfaced streets.

A near-zero reading had been forecast for Wednesday, too, but the overnight low was 20 above. However, this time the cold wave warning was general throughout Ohio.

The zero-to-10 above forecast applies to Northeast Ohio. Northwest Ohio may get zero to 5 below. Southern and Central Ohio can expect zero to 10 above by morning.

For the Tri-State area, Western Pennsylvania is due 10 to 20 above by morning and the West Virginia Panhandle will get about 10 above.

Despite the variations in the predicted night's lows, the forecast is specific in promising very cold for tomorrow. The cold wave will arrive late this afternoon, followed by winds and snow flur-

Search About Over

No Clues Found In Plane 'Crash'

The Beaver County - East Liverpool area hummed with excitement for awhile today over unconfirmed reports that an apparently disabled plane had crashed early Friday night in the vicinity of Midland.

A task - forced size of volunteer firemen and residents from the small Pennsylvania communities along the Ohio River renewed their efforts this morning to discover wreckage of the "mystery" craft after a fruitless search Friday night.

BUT THE search tapered off before noon without discovery of any significant clues.

Reports that a plane in distress had crashed in flames in the Midland - Shippingport area circulated rapidly Friday night, touching off a search by firemen and police and excited residents.

The Greater Pittsburgh Airport and air bases in a surrounding area were contacted but none verified that a plane was missing or in distress.

Two search planes were dispatched from the Greater Pittsburgh Airport last night after the initial crash reports, and the craft cruised over the general vicinity of Midland-Shippingport with their landing lights on.

THE "MYSTERY" plane apparently disappeared into the night after train crews at Crucible Steel Co. in Midland said they spotted flames and smoke spewing from its tail.

George Vujaklya of Meadow brook Estates, Midland, at work at Crucible, said he had seen a low-flying plane trailing flames and smoke at 5:35 p.m. The craft was flying at a low altitude, about the height of the stack in the company's coke plant, Vujaklya estimated.

The craft disappeared from view after cruising behind the stack, Vujaklya said. Fellow workers, Harold Johnson and Gale Clutter, both of East Liverpool, also watched and Clutter added he saw the plane "take a sharp dive, not a nose dive."

THE WORKMEN said the plane was traveling in a general direction of north by southwest.

As reports of the distressed plane circulated, volunteer firemen and residents from Midland, Shippingport and Georgetown turned out to begin a wide search for wreckage.

The Shippingport Ferry cruised up and down the ice-covered Ohio River but found nothing to indicate that the plane had gone down in the stream and disappeared beneath the icy crust.

Air control systems at Greater Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Cleveland were notified of suspicions that a plane had crashed, but each reported no craft late, missing or in trouble. One spokesman at Cleveland said however, that the pilot may not have filed a flight pattern, and if so then air

Child Injured As Sled Hits Stopped Auto

City Motorist Also Hurt In Another Of City Accidents

A sled rider suffered a possible shoulder injury and a city motorist was hurt slightly in two of six mishaps reported by police Friday night and early today.

Three other mishaps were blamed on snow piled in the center of Bradshaw Ave. near Avondale St., police were told.

Daniel Clutter, 12-year-old son of Earl Clutter, 834 Avondale St., was X-rayed at City Hospital for an injury of the left shoulder after his sled struck the halted car of Albert S. Hargreaves, 52, of Lisbon St.

Hargreaves told police he was headed east on Minerva St. about 5:45 p.m. when he saw the Clutter boy cross Minerva St. on his sled. He said he stopped and the sled ran under the front bumper and struck the right front wheel of his auto.

Denver Lee McKnight, 24, of Park Way was treated at the hospital at 6 p.m. for a pain in his head after a headon collision at Park Way and Rubicon St. about two and a half hours earlier.

Elmer E. Grafton, 23, of Hammondsville R.D. 1 was cited by police for reckless driving after his car, turning west, struck McKnight's 1957 sedan, headon, police said. McKnight had stopped.

The series of mishaps blamed on mounded snow at Bradshaw and Avondale St. started at 8 p.m. yesterday.

James K. Williams, 22, of 643 Riley Ave. told officers he was headed down Bradshaw about 8 p.m. and didn't see the snow bank in time to avoid striking it. The crash damaged the left front fender of his 1961 sedan.

David Lynn Coleman, 16, rear 716 Jackson St. told police he was headed down Bradshaw at 2:05 a.m. today.

When he swerved to avoid the mound of snow, he lost control and his car skidded on the ice and struck the parked auto of Ben Glogar, 645 Bradshaw Ave., damaging the rear taillight.

Paul E. Carter, 35, of 510 Walnut St., an off-duty patrolman, said the parking light on his 1960 sedan was damaged when he

Chester Bar Owner Fined In Minor Sale

A 41-year-old operator of a Chester tavern was fined for sale of non-intoxicating beer to three juveniles at a hearing Friday night before Mayor Harry Abrams.

Donald Nesselrode of Alpha St., East Liverpool, proprietor of the 600 Bar on Carolina Ave. and 6th St., pleaded innocent but was fined $25 and costs.

He was cited Monday by Acting Police Chief Clarence Lennens. Nesselrode had phoned the chief when one of three youths refused to show his Selective Service registration card so the bar operator could determine his age.

Chief Lennens said it was determined the youth had purchased beer in the tavern previously.

5 Americans Among 79 Victims

Search Crews Sift Debris For Plane-Collision Dead

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Search crews sifted through debris reminiscent of wartime today for victims of a two-plane air collision that rained flaming wreckage on this city's main square, killing more persons on the ground than in the air.

Seventy-nine persons were killed in the crash Friday—five of them Americans who were passengers in a Middle East Airlines Viscount flying from Beirut, Lebanon, via Cyprus. That plane carried 14 persons to their deaths; the other plane, a Turkish air force ship, had three men aboard. All died.

More than 100 persons on the ground were injured, at least 10 of them so badly they were given no chance for recovery by hospital officials.

The Americans listed among the dead were:

Miss Caroline Hopp, 18, a student at American University in Beirut, and daughter of Fulbright exchange Prof. Ralph H. Hopp of the University of Minnesota, now in Ankara.

Paul Dragnic, 18, a Fulbright student and son of a Vanderbilt University professor now teaching in Ankara.

C. W. Bartholomew, employe of the National Supply Co., who was on his way to Ankara on a business trip.

Robert Harrison Richard or Pritchard, manager of the Schromberger Overseas Oil Co., Miami, Fla., who was listed as a resident of Ankara.

Dawn E. Wall, or Donald Wall, believed to be a U.S. government employee.

Usually busy Ulus Square was closed off today.

President Cemal Gursel was one of the first government officials to visit the disaster scene.

The airliner made its last radio contact with Ankara airport 10 minutes before the crash.

The two planes—a passenger airliner and a military plane—collided nose to nose in a cloud bank. There were 17 persons aboard the two planes.

The passenger plane was a Middle East Airlines jet-prop Viscount carrying 11 passengers, and a crew of three. It was preparing to land in Ankara. Five passengers were American.

The military craft was a Turkish Air Force C47 Dakota with a crew of three on a routine instrument training flight. The body of one crewman was found near the square, his parachute partly opened.

Speculation In Canada

Diefenbaker May Oust Parliament, Seek New Election

Claim Made Soviet Has Cuban Base

Senator Charges Missiles, 30,000 Troops On Island

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, (D-S.C.,) has chaged that "behind the brush curtain in Cuba" lies a formidable Soviet strategic base with ballistic missiles and 30,000 to 40,000 troops.

He said-in a newsletter to constituents Friday — that the information came from reliable sources. A Pentagon spokesman disputed the report, telling newsmen:

"The information contained in Sen. Thurmond's weekly newsletter is at wide variance with carefully evaluated data collected by U.S. intelligence from continued surveillance and other sources."

And the spokesman for the Pentagon — which for more than a week has been contradicting "informed sources" claims of growing Russia power on Cuba — asked the senator to back up his charges.

Thurmond made public his estimates — without identifying the sources—as a Senate Armed Services subcommittee tagged the Cuban military situation for an early investigation to "get all the facts." And Secretary of State Dean Rusk conceded at a news conference that "there is a significant Soviet military presence in Cuba which is of great concern to the United States."

Thurmond, a reserve Army major general, listed an array of missiles, bombers, tanks and other armaments in Cuba which he said "indicates the presence of a complete Soviet army, and the inventory normally assigned to a Soviet air army."

Among the armament he listed as in Cuba were:

— "Nuclear-tipped FROG missiles, with a 300-mile range."

— "More than 150 Cruise missiles, some of which arrived in the last three weeks, are on four coastal defense sites."

9 Dead, 500 Homeless

Damaging Gales, Blizzards Blast West Half Of U.S.

By The Associated Press

Destructive winds and blizzard conditions paralyzed much of the nation's western half today, unleashing damaging floods, snapping power lines, closing schools, halting transportation and leaving several persons dead.

In rain-soaked northern California, rivers began receding into their banks, leaving 9 persons dead and about 500 homeless after a three-day storm dumped 22 inches of rain in many heavily populated areas, accompanied by winds up to 100 m.p.h

Much of southern Idaho lay beneath deep, murky water, forcing hundreds of persons from their homes, disrupting transportation and causing damage in the millions.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie declared a state of "extreme emergency" in four southern Idaho counties.

Blistering winds and blizzard snows which had lashed the Rocky Mountain area subsided, but warming temperatures, snow and rain combined to make a poor situation worse. Most of Montana was glazed with a coating of ice, closing schools, halting bus transportation, closing highways — and even keeping some mail cariers off their routes.

Parts of Colorado were hit by 100 m.p.h. winds. Heavy damage was reported at the Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs and at Boulder, home of the University of Colorado.

The eastern half of the nation wasn't exactly basking in comfort, either.

Legislators Called Into Rare Parley

Action Hinged To Criticism By U.S. On Nuclear Arms

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian Cabinet met in a rare Saturday session today amid heightened speculation that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker is going to dissolve Parliament and call for new elections as a result of the U. S. call for Canada to take a clear stand on nuclear armaments.

After the meeting had been in progress for some time, Diefenbaker emerged and chatted briefly with reporters. He said he had no formal announcement to make and expressed doubt there would be any announcements today. Then he returned to the Cabinet meeting.

Dissolution of Parliament could be ordered at any time, however, even though the Parliament is in weekend recess.

Diefenbaker paid a 40-minute call Friday on Governor-General George Vanier, a required prelude to any decision to dissolve Parliament. The prime minister then met with Foreign Secretary Howard Green and Charles Titchie, Canadian ambassador to Washington.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk Friday defended as necessary the statement that Canada was dragging its feet on accepting nuclear warheads for U.S.-supplied Bomarc missiles and Voodoo interceptor jets at home and in Europe.

Expressing regret if the United States gave offense, Rusk said the statement was issued because of public debate in Ottawa of issues that figured in secret discussions between the two countries.

"Without notice to us," said Rusk, "there was disclosure of confidential exchanges between our two governments."

Diefenbaker declined to comment directly on Rusk's statement, but declared that Canada had demonstrated it is "not in the new frontier of the United States."

The question now is whether Diefenbaker, whose Conservative Party came out 17 seats short of a majority in last June's elections, will try to take political advantage of the repercussions of the Washington statement and try to recapture a majority of seats in new elections.

$195 Million Proposed For Fallout Units

McNamara Plan Stresses Shelters In Suburban Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy Administration proposed to Congress today a $195-million fallout protection program which would stress shelters in the nation's suburbs.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara sent the plan to the House and Senate, coupling it with a recommendation that the Pentagon civil defense program be broadened to cover natural disaster relief.

McNamara said the Defense Department's national shelter survey has located spaces that would provide fallout protection for more than 100 million Americans.

He said 70 per cent of the space could be readied for use this year "as a nucleus of a program of fallout shelter for all the population, near homes and places of work."

But the defense secretary added that many of the spaces located so far are in urban areas.

U.S. Ponders Legal Action To Hit Hoffa

Would Stop Status As Union Boss If Can't Get Bond

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is reliably reported considering legal action to stop James R. Hoffa from operating as president of the Teamsters Union if he is unable to obtain a "faithful duty" bond after Feb. 8. Hoffa told the House Labor Committee Friday that neither he nor his union can be held in wilful violation of the bonding requirement because the bonding firms have all suddenly refused to extend further bonding protection.

The Teamsters Union chief blamed the impasse on alleged Justice Department pressure, a charge denied before the committee by Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach. The Justice Department has suggested the bonding firms may be balking at underworld connections of Teamsters insurance agents.

British Chief Meets Pope In Private Talk

VATICAN CITY (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, in Rome for an effort to repair European unity had a private audience today with Pope John XXIII.

The Roman Catholic pontiff and Macmillan talked for a half-hour in the Pope's private library.

Macmillan sped to the Vatican for the meeting, described by officials there as a courtesy call, after another conference with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani in an attempt to keep alive a possibility of Britain's entry into the European Common Market despite French opposition.

He was accompanied to the Vatican by Deputy Foreign Secretary Edward Heath, who conducted the Brussels negotiations wrecked Tuesday by a French veto, and Sir Peter Scarlett, British minister to the Holy See.

As is customary, there was no announcement as to what the Pope and the prime minister said. The papal chief of protocol reported after the audience, however, that Macmillan said he was extremely happy at the opportunity to talk with the Pope.

Altogether Macmillan spent an hour in the Vatican. After his audience with the Pope, he called upon Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state. They talked for 10 minutes. Macmillan also visited St. Peter's.

Sam's Ring 'Token Of Love'

German Heiress Becomes Engaged To Dr. Sheppard

CLEVELAND (AP)—A striking platinum blonde from Germany wore a two-carat diamond ring today after announcing she now is formally engaged to convicted wife-slayer, Dr. Sam Sheppard. Mrs. Ariane Tebbenjohanns, a divorcee, said Friday night Dr. Sam gave her the ring as a token "of our love for one another." The 33-year-old heiress said she wants to marry him as soon as he gets out of prison.

Sheppard is serving a life sentence but could be eligible for parole after serving 10 years for the July 1954 bludgeon slaying of his pregnant wife, Marilyn.

"I was so thrilled about getting the ring," said Mrs. Tebbenjohanns, daughter of a wealthy industrialist in Duesseldorf. She came to this country after corresponding for three years with Dr. Sam through his familly.

Sheppard's brother, Dr. Stephen Sheppard, said he took the ring to Mrs. Tebbenjohanns after visiting Dr. Sam at Marion Correctional Institution. He said Dr. Sam authorized him to give the ring to Mrs. Tebbenjohanns, who is staying at his home in suburban Rocky River.

The attractive divorcee was not permitted to see Dr. Sam, and Dr. Stephen Sheppard criticized Ohio's Correction Commissioner, Maury C. Koblentz, for what he termed a "form of mental torture." It's improper for him not to let Ariane see Dr. Sam-really psychologically cruel and unfair treatment."

Koblentz has said he still isn't certain of the couple's relationship and has barred Mrs. Tebbenjohanns from visiting or writing to Sheppard pending further investigation.

Dr. Sam was disappointed over the latest development in the celebrated case, the brother reported.

School Walls Collapse, 130 Feared Dead

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Collapse of a Roman Catholic chapel and school building in Biblian late Friday killed at least 60 school girls and four teachers. Their bodies were recovered.

Search parties probing through the debris today expressed fear that as many as 130 persons may have perished.

The disaster struck unexpectedly at the Heart of Mary College in Biblian, an Andean mountain town 200 miles south of Quito. About 450 children were trapped in the ruins when the ceiling caved in during prayer services. Some quickly freed themselves.

The recovered dead included three teaching nuns and a lay teacher. One of the nuns was found dead with the bodies of three little girls in her arms.

The Oblate nuns of Biblian ran the school on the second floor of their building. The first floor had been under repair, to enlarge the capacity of the school. Presumably the foundations were weakend as the work progressed.

The Roman Catholic pontiff and Macmillan talked for a half-hour in the Pope's private library.

Macmillan sped to the Vatican for the meeting, described by officials there as a courtesy call, after another conference with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani in an attempt to keep alive a possibility of Britain's entry into the European Common Market despite French opposition.

He was accompanied to the Vatican by Deputy Foreign Secretary Edward Heath, who conducted the Brussels negotiations wrecked Tuesday by a French veto, and Sir Peter Scarlett, British minister to the Holy See.

As is customary, there was no announcement as to what the Pope and the prime minister said. The papal chief of protocol reported after the audience, however, that Macmillan said he was extremely happy at the opportunity to talk with the Pope.

Altogether Macmillan spent an hour in the Vatican. After his audience with the Pope, he called upon Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, Vatican secretary of state. They talked for 10 minutes. Macmillan also visited St. Peter's.

9 Dead, 500 Homeless

Damaging Gales, Blizzards Blast West Half Of U.S.

By The Associated Press

Destructive winds and blizzard conditions paralyzed much of the nation's western half today, unleashing damaging floods, snapping power lines, closing schools, halting transportation and leaving several persons dead.

In rain-soaked northern California, rivers began receding into their banks, leaving 9 persons dead and about 500 homeless after a three-day storm dumped 22 inches of rain in many heavily populated areas, accompanied by winds up to 100 m.p.h

Much of southern Idaho lay beneath deep, murky water, forcing hundreds of persons from their homes, disrupting transportation and causing damage in the millions.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie declared a state of "extreme emergency" in four southern Idaho counties.

Blistering winds and blizzard snows which had lashed the Rocky Mountain area subsided, but warming temperatures, snow and rain combined to make a poor situation worse. Most of Montana was glazed with a coating of ice, closing schools, halting bus transportation, closing highways — and even keeping some mail cariers off their routes.

Parts of Colorado were hit by 100 m.p.h. winds. Heavy damage was reported at the Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs and at Boulder, home of the University of Colorado.

The eastern half of the nation wasn't exactly basking in comfort, either.

$195 Million Proposed For Fallout Units

McNamara Plan Stresses Shelters In Suburban Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy Administration proposed to Congress today a $195-million fallout protection program which would stress shelters in the nation's suburbs.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara sent the plan to the House and Senate, coupling it with a recommendation that the Pentagon civil defense program be broadened to cover natural disaster relief.

McNamara said the Defense Department's national shelter survey has located spaces that would provide fallout protection for more than 100 million Americans.

He said 70 per cent of the space could be readied for use this year "as a nucleus of a program of fallout shelter for all the population, near homes and places of work."

But the defense secretary added that many of the spaces located so far are in urban areas.

Would Stop Status As Union Boss If Can't Get Bond

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is reliably reported considering legal action to stop James R. Hoffa from operating as president of the Teamsters Union if he is unable to obtain a "faithful duty" bond after Feb. 8. Hoffa told the House Labor Committee Friday that neither he nor his union can be held in wilful violation of the bonding requirement because the bonding firms have all suddenly refused to extend further bonding protection.

The Teamsters Union chief blamed the impasse on alleged Justice Department pressure, a charge denied before the committee by Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach. The Justice Department has suggested the bonding firms may be balking at underworld connections of Teamsters insurance agents.

Sam's Ring 'Token Of Love'

German Heiress Becomes Engaged To Dr. Sheppard

CLEVELAND (AP)—A striking platinum blonde from Germany wore a two-carat diamond ring today after announcing she now is formally engaged to convicted wife-slayer, Dr. Sam Sheppard. Mrs. Ariane Tebbenjohanns, a divorcee, said Friday night Dr. Sam gave her the ring as a token "of our love for one another." The 33-year-old heiress said she wants to marry him as soon as he gets out of prison.

Sheppard is serving a life sentence but could be eligible for parole after serving 10 years for the July 1954 bludgeon slaying of his pregnant wife, Marilyn.

"I was so thrilled about getting the ring," said Mrs. Tebbenjohanns, daughter of a wealthy industrialist in Duesseldorf. She came to this country after corresponding for three years with Dr. Sam through his family.

Sheppard's brother, Dr. Stephen Sheppard, said he took the ring to Mrs. Tebbenjohanns after visiting Dr. Sam at Marion Correctional Institution. He said Dr. Sam authorized him to give the ring to Mrs. Tebbenjohanns, who is staying at his home in suburban Rocky River.

The attractive divorcee was not permitted to see Dr. Sam, and Dr. Stephen Sheppard criticized Ohio's Correction Commissioner, Maury C. Koblentz, for what he termed a "form of mental torture." It's improper for him not to let Ariane see Dr. Sam-really psychologically cruel and unfair treatment."

Koblentz has said he still isn't certain of the couple's relationship and has barred Mrs. Tebbenjohanns from visiting or writing to Sheppard pending further investigation.

Dr. Sam was disappointed over the latest development in the celebrated case, the brother reported.

Action Hinged To Criticism By U.S. On Nuclear Arms

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian Cabinet met in a rare Saturday session today amid heightened speculation that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker is going to dissolve Parliament and call for new elections as a result of the U. S. call for Canada to take a clear stand on nuclear armaments.

After the meeting had been in progress for some time, Diefenbaker emerged and chatted briefly with reporters. He said he had no formal announcement to make and expressed doubt there would be any announcements today. Then he returned to the Cabinet meeting.

Dissolution of Parliament could be ordered at any time, however, even though the Parliament is in weekend recess.

Diefenbaker paid a 40-minute call Friday on Governor-General George Vanier, a required prelude to any decision to dissolve Parliament. The prime minister then met with Foreign Secretary Howard Green and Charles Titchie, Canadian ambassador to Washington.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk Friday defended as necessary the statement that Canada was dragging its feet on accepting nuclear warheads for U.S.-supplied Bomarc missiles and Voodoo interceptor jets at home and in Europe.

Expressing regret if the United States gave offense, Rusk said the statement was issued because of public debate in Ottawa of issues that figured in secret discussions between the two countries.

"Without notice to us," said Rusk, "there was disclosure of confidential exchanges between our two governments."

Diefenbaker declined to comment directly on Rusk's statement, but declared that Canada had demonstrated it is "not in the new frontier of the United States."

The question now is whether Diefenbaker, whose Conservative Party came out 17 seats short of a majority in last June's elections, will try to take political advantage of the repercussions of the Washington statement and try to recapture a majority of seats in new elections.

School Walls Collapse, 130 Feared Dead

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Collapse of a Roman Catholic chapel and school building in Biblian late Friday killed at least 60 school girls and four teachers. Their bodies were recovered.

Search parties probing through the debris today expressed fear that as many as 130 persons may have perished.

The disaster struck unexpectedly at the Heart of Mary College in Biblian, an Andean mountain town 200 miles south of Quito. About 450 children were trapped in the ruins when the ceiling caved in during prayer services. Some quickly freed themselves.

The recovered dead included three teaching nuns and a lay teacher. One of the nuns was found dead with the bodies of three little girls in her arms.

The Oblate nuns of Biblian ran the school on the second floor of their building. The first floor had been under repair, to enlarge the capacity of the school. Presumably the foundations were weakened as the work progressed.

Nearly 1,200 more claims for unemployment compensation were processed by the East Liverpool office in January than in December, the Ohio State Employment Service office reported.

The office handled 3,328 claims last month compared to 2,158 in December, Harry L. Dinsmore, manager, said. The biggest increase was in the number of continuing claims with 2,872 last month against 1,713 in December while new claims totaled 456 last month compared to 445 in December, he said.

There were 1,119 applications for work last month and 42 placements compared to 1,003 and 26 in December, Dinsmore continued.

Claims for the week ending today showed an increase of 65 with a total of 692 compared to 627 for the week ending Jan. 26. New claims totaled 106 this week with 586 continuing claims.

City Driver Receives Suspension Of Permit

The driver license of a city motorist was suspended Friday at Lisbon as a result of accumulation of 12 points under Ohio's demerit system, and a Lisbon driver was placed on probation for reaching 12 points.

Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard suspended the permit of Robert Earl Atkins, 24, of 525 Palissey St. for six months as a result of two convictions of driving while intoxicated. Each violation is equal to 6 points.

Judge Buzzard withheld the suspension set for Paul Harold Ford, 27, of 128 W. Chestnut St., Lisbon on condition he not be cited for the remainder of the year.

In the past two years he had been arrested twice for speeding, twice for driving left of center, improper passing and failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Salem District Man Sentenced To Prison

LISBON — A Salem area man was sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary Friday when he changed his plea to guilty of auto theft and burglary before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp.

Daniel Leyman, 28, of R. D. 4 was sentenced to 1-15 years for burglary of Ivan's Exchange and 1-20 years for auto theft and he must serve the sentences consecutively.

Leyman also cannot begin the terms until he serves the remainder of his sentence, for which he was on parole, when he committed these offenses, Judge Sharp decreed.

Plane 'Crash' Search Futile

control would have no information on its destination.

—:—

A WOMAN in Shippingport reported she had seen flames burning brightly on a nearby hillside, but search parties were unable to find evidence of a crash.

Another report of a fire along the TV Tower Rd. near Midland turned out to be rubbish burning at the city dump.

The Chippewa Township Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said there was no verification whatsoever that a plane was missing.

The barracks said a check last night with air navigation centers at Cleveland, Youngstown and Pittsburgh showed none was overdue in their territory and spokesmen for the Air Force at Pittsburgh and for the Beaver County Civil Air Patrol have no information.

IT WAS RECALLED that a large two-motored plane fell into the river at Pittsburgh several years ago and never was found despite long dragging operations.

One theory was that a military jet may have been using its afterburner as it passed over Midland. The device, utilized for bursts of speed or for sharp climbing, creates a long tail of intense flame during its brief uses.

Herron's Airport at Pughtown said this morning that no planes had departed from its landing strip Friday.

Chief Bill Burris headed the group of Shippingport firemen searching this morning in a hilly area across the river from Midland. Police Chief Robert Green began hunting wreckage about daylight.

THE ORGANIZED search parties found the going rough this morning, with a heavy drizzle creating slush and slippery footing in the countryside areas.

Chief Burris reported he was contacted this morning by a resident in Beaver who said he was connected with commercial aviation. The Beaver man said he had spotted a four - passenger plane near his home last night and "was convinced it would crash."

A thunder - like noise was heard by Frank Meyer of near Hookstown as he was putting cows in his barn about two miles east of Hookstown around the time the plane was reported to have gone down.

HE SAID he thought it was thunder, and heard it a second time.

Fog obscured low - lying places in the whole area, and the volunteer searchers were handicapped by the poor visibility, slushy snow and mud and intermittent drizzle.

Farm Bureau Needs 22 For Member Goal

LISBON — Twenty - two members still are needed to reach the goal of 565 for the Columbiana County Farm Bureau Federation, according to Galen Greenisen of Salem R. D. 2, chairman of the county drive.

Sixty persons attended an oyster supper and final drive report meeting Thursday evening at the New Garden Methodist Church. Feb. 13 was set as final date for reports on membership and it is hoped the goal will be reached by then, Greenisen said.

Hancock's Last-Half Tax Installments Due

Hancock Countians were reminded today by the office of Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny that second-half installments on their 1962 taxes are due this month.

Taxpayers who make payments in February will receive a discount of 2½ per cent, while the net amount will be collected from those who pay in March. Interest will begin accumulating on payments not made until April or later.

County residents received tax bills for all of 1962 in statements mailed in August.

Candidates

George W. Mackall, 812 17th St., and Richard F. Kountz, 22, of 401 5th St., all for Democratic nomination for Council -at- large seats.

Bemis is employed at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. He worked 15 years as a bus driver prior to dissolution of the former Valley Motor Transit Co.

Married, Bemis is the father of four children. He is a member of the Covenant United Presbyterian Church.

Mackall is a conductor for the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., where he has been employed about 14 years. He served in Council previously, filling the unexpired term of Wilbur Ralston, who gave up his seat when moving outside the city.

Mackall is married and the father of two sons and a daughter. He is a member of American Legion Post 70 and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, both of Wellsville, and the Highlandtown Grange. He serves as a deacon in the Wellsville First Christian Church.

Kountz is making his first try in politics. A Navy veteran, he is a 1959 graduate of Wellsville High School. He is employed at the H. K. Porter Co. and is a member of Local 539 of the United Brick and Clayworkers Union. He also is a member of Sons of Italy Lodge 657.

O'Neill, 39, also is making his first bid for office. A native of East Liverpool, he is a clerk in the electric furnace department at the Crucible Steel Co. at Midland.

He is married and has two children. He belongs to the Wellsville Eagles Aerie and the First Church of Christ in East Liverpool. He is a graduate of East Liverpool High School.

Other new candidates who entered yesterday included Paul J. Adams, for the Republican nomination for a Council-at-large seat in East Palestine, and W. Roy Guy, Republican, for a seat on Columbiana Village Council.

Atty. Scott McCorkhill filed for the Republican nomination as Salem solicitor and four Democrats entered for Columbiana offices.

They are Adin R. Kauffman for treasurer; Willard E. Zellers for Council, and Joseph Magill and Harry C. Keylor for the Board of Public Affairs.

Although the filing deadline falls next Wednesday at 4 p.m., only 71 candidates have entered officially for posts in seven cities and villages, the Election Board's staff pointed out.

At the deadline for the last comparable election in 1961, a total of 219 candidates had entered.

Part of the drop apparently is accounted for by a cut in the number of members to be elected to village council seats this year.

In 1961, voters named four councilmen for four-year terms and two for two-year terms in each of the affected villages. This year, only two will be chosen in each village.

It's part of a change set up in a new law enacted by the State Legislature, under which all village councilmen eventually will be chosen for four-year terms.

Prior to the change, the village councilmen served only two-year terms and all six seats were subject to election every two years.

The affected communities are Columbiana, Leetonia and Lisbon. They are the so-called "major villages" with a population of 2,000 or more. Salineville lost its status as a "major village" in the 1960 census when its population fell under 2,000.

In addition to the three villages, primaries will be held in East Liverpool, Wellsville, East Palestine and Salem cities.

Blaze Damages Home Of Richmond Family

RICHMOND — An area family of nine was left homeless by a blaze which heavily damaged their farmhouse Thursday, Richmond volunteer firemen reported.

Mrs. Alice Echols told firemen she was walking to a neighbor's home when she turned and saw smoke coming from the attic of her farmhouse.

Racing back, she led four children to safety. Four others were in school at the time. The oldest daughter, Barbara, 17, walked two miles to a phone and summoned firemen.

The family managed to save one small trunk of clothing from the ruins. The Steubenville Red Cross Chapter offered the family shelter. Cause of the fire is undetermined.

Albania Backs Stalin On Version Of Battle

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Albania came to the defense of Josef Stalin today with an attack on the new Soviet version of the battle of Stalingrad — now Volgograd — in World War II.

In the new Soviet writing of the battle, Stalin is pictured as the blunderer and Nikita Khrushchev as the hero.

An article in the Albanian Communist Party organ Zeri I Populit — broadcast by Radio Tirana — accused Khrushchev of distorting the truth.

Ohio AFL-CIO Hurls Charge At Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Republican state administration engaged in "false economy" by the wholesale firing of state employes without adequate notice, the Ohio AFL-CIO has charged.

Some 600 delegates to the labor organization's 1963 legislative conference said in a resolution Friday that the action was taken "without regard to the maintenance of adequate services to the people of Ohio."

It also was critical of an unsuccessful bid by the administration to eliminate Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays as holidays for state employes.

Jurors Expected To Be Picked In Professor's Trial

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Selection of jurors for the trial of Gene Isaac Stees, 30-year-old college professor charged with the fatal beating of his pregnant wife, was expected to be completed today.

Court officials called in an additional 75 veniremen after the original 75 were questioned Friday. Eleven were seated tentatively and 64 dismissed. Still needed were one juror and two alternates.

Stees, former instructor of education at Ohio University here, is accused of beating his wife, Helen, also 30, to death with a crowbar. Her body was found last Oct. 26 inside a metal drum in nearby Dow Lake.

Only one witness has been subpoenaed so far. She is Patricia Weathers, the alleged "other woman" at whose farm home Stees stayed while his wife, mother of two, lived with her parents in Ashland.

Judge John Bolin told attorneys he hoped jury selection would be completed today. He indicated the trial will require four or five days after testimony begins, probably on Monday.

UMW Votes To End Robena Mine Strike

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Members of United Mine Workers Local 6321 voted Friday to end a three-day walkout at the U.S. Steel Corp.'s Robena Mine at Carmichaels.

Some 500 of the 1,100 striking miners attended a meeting in Masontown.

Maintenance crews were to enter the mine later in the day with production crews to follow a few hours later.

The men walked out Tuesday in protest against the reported firing of a fan attendant for refusing to leave his post and go to another part of the mine, where an explosion last Dec. 6 took 37 lives.

Local President John Ozanich said U. S. Steel has agreed to rehire the attendant and keep him on his post at all times.

Acme Steel Co. Plans $4 Million Expansion

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — The Newport Acme Steel Co. plans to spend $4 million for plant expansion and improvement in the next 15 months.

A. P. Miller, Newport division president, said the expansion will create 105 jobs. It includes a broader product line and processing facilities.

A-Plant Resumes After Refueling

The Shippingport atomic power station is back in operation after the third refueling was completed in record time.

The station was shut down for 32 days to allow replacement of the highly-enriched uranium portion of the reactor core.

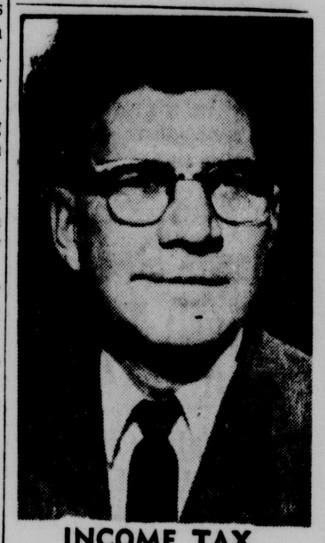

The refueling time was almost equal to the time required for the normal overhaul of a high temperature, high pressure boiler in a central power station, Philip A. Fleger, president and board chairman of the Duquesne Light Co., which operates the Shippingport facility for the Atomic Energy Commission, said.

The first refueling in 1959 required 134 days and the second in 1961 took 43 days. The last was completed Tuesday.

All three refuelings involved only the highly-enriched uranium portion of the core, Fleger said. The major portion of the original reactor consisting of natural uranium has not been replaced, he pointed out.

City Driver Receives Suspension Of Permit

The driver license of a city motorist was suspended Friday at Lisbon as a result of accumulation of 12 points under Ohio's demerit system, and a Lisbon driver was placed on probation for reaching 12 points.

Common Pleas Judge Raymond S. Buzzard suspended the permit of Robert Earl Atkins, 24, of 525 Palissey St. for six months as a result of two convictions of driving while intoxicated. Each violation is equal to 6 points.

Judge Buzzard withheld the suspension set for Paul Harold Ford, 27, of 128 W. Chestnut St., Lisbon on condition he not be cited for the remainder of the year.

In the past two years he had been arrested twice for speeding, twice for driving left of center, improper passing and failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Salem District Man Sentenced To Prison

LISBON — A Salem area man was sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary Friday when he changed his plea to guilty of auto theft and burglary before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp.

Daniel Leyman, 28, of R. D. 4 was sentenced to 1-15 years for burglary of Ivan's Exchange and 1-20 years for auto theft and he must serve the sentences consecutively.

Leyman also cannot begin the terms until he serves the remainder of his sentence, for which he was on parole, when he committed these offenses, Judge Sharp decreed.

Youths Beat Woman

BEAVER — Mrs. Sophie Baran of Baden, candy store worker, was discharged Friday from Rochester General Hospital after being detained overnight with injuries suffered when she was beaten about the head with blunt instruments by two young men. Mrs. Baran, 62, said she turned to get some candy when the men began striking her. They fled as she screamed.

Plane 'Crash' Search Futile

control would have no information on its destination.

—:—

A WOMAN in Shippingport reported she had seen flames burning brightly on a nearby hillside, but search parties were unable to find evidence of a crash.

Another report of a fire along the TV Tower Rd. near Midland turned out to be rubbish burning at the city dump.

The Chippewa Township Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said there was no verification whatsoever that a plane was missing.

The barracks said a check last night with air navigation centers at Cleveland, Youngstown and Pittsburgh showed none was overdue in their territory and spokesmen for the Air Force at Pittsburgh and for the Beaver County Civil Air Patrol have no information.

IT WAS RECALLED that a large two-motored plane fell into the river at Pittsburgh several years ago and never was found despite long dragging operations.

One theory was that a military jet may have been using its afterburner as it passed over Midland. The device, utilized for bursts of speed or for sharp climbing, creates a long tail of intense flame during its brief uses.

Herron's Airport at Pughtown said this morning that no planes had departed from its landing strip Friday.

Chief Bill Burris headed the group of Shippingport firemen searching this morning in a hilly area across the river from Midland. Police Chief Robert Green began hunting wreckage about daylight.

THE ORGANIZED search parties found the going rough this morning, with a heavy drizzle creating slush and slippery footing in the countryside areas.

Chief Burris reported he was contacted this morning by a resident in Beaver who said he was connected with commercial aviation. The Beaver man said he had spotted a four - passenger plane near his home last night and "was convinced it would crash."

A thunder - like noise was heard by Frank Meyer of near Hookstown as he was putting cows in his barn about two miles east of Hookstown around the time the plane was reported to have gone down.

HE SAID he thought it was thunder, and heard it a second time.

Fog obscured low - lying places in the whole area, and the volunteer searchers were handicapped by the poor visibility, slushy snow and mud and intermittent drizzle.

Sixty persons attended an oyster supper and final drive report meeting Thursday evening at the New Garden Methodist Church. Feb. 13 was set as final date for reports on membership and it is hoped the goal will be reached by then, Greenisen said.

Hancock's Last-Half Tax Installments Due

Hancock Countians were reminded today by the office of Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny that second-half installments on their 1962 taxes are due this month.

Taxpayers who make payments in February will receive a discount of 2½ per cent, while the net amount will be collected from those who pay in March. Interest will begin accumulating on payments not made until April or later.

County residents received tax bills for all of 1962 in statements mailed in August.

George W. Mackall, 812 17th St., and Richard F. Kountz, 22, of 401 5th St., all for Democratic nomination for Council -at- large seats.

Bemis is employed at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. He worked 15 years as a bus driver prior to dissolution of the former Valley Motor Transit Co

Married, Bemis is the father of four children. He is a member of the Covenant United Presbyterian Church.

Mackall is a conductor for the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., where he has been employed about 14 years. He served in Council previously, filling the unexpired term of Wilbur Ralston, who gave up his seat when moving outside the city.

Mackall is married and the father of two sons and a daughter. He is a member of American Legion Post 70 and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, both of Wellsville, and the Highlandtown Grange. He serves as a deacon in the Wellsville First Christian Church.

Kountz is making his first try in politics. A Navy veteran, he is a 1959 graduate of Wellsville High School. He is employed at the H. K. Porter Co. and is a member of Local 539 of the United Brick and Clayworkers Union. He also is a member of Sons of Italy Lodge 657.

O'Neill, 39, also is making his first bid for office. A native of East Liverpool, he is a clerk in the electric furnace department at the Crucible Steel Co. at Midland.

He is married and has two children. He belongs to the Wellsville Eagles Aerie and the First Church of Christ in East Liverpool. He is a graduate of East Liverpool High School.

Other new candidates who entered yesterday included Paul J. Adams, for the Republican nomination for a Council-at-large seat in East Palestine, and W. Roy Guy, Republican, for a seat on Columbiana Village Council.

Atty. Scott McCorkhill filed for the Republican nomination as Salem solicitor and four Democrats entered for Columbiana offices.

They are Adin R. Kauffman for treasurer; Willard E. Zellers for Council, and Joseph Magill and Harry C. Keylor for the Board of Public Affairs.

Although the filing deadline falls next Wednesday at 4 p.m., only 71 candidates have entered officially for posts in seven cities and villages, the Election Board's staff pointed out.

At the deadline for the last comparable election in 1961, a total of 219 candidates had entered.

Part of the drop apparently is accounted for by a cut in the number of members to be elected to village council seats this year.

In 1961, voters named four councilmen for four-year terms and two for two-year terms in each of the affected villages. This year, only two will be chosen in each village.

It's part of a change set up in a new law enacted by the State Legislature, under which all village councilmen eventually will be chosen for four-year terms.

Prior to the change, the village councilmen served only two-year terms and all six seats were subject to election every two years.

The affected communities are Columbiana, Leetonia and Lisbon. They are the so-called "major villages" with a population of 2,000 or more. Salineville lost its status as a "major village" in the 1960 census when its population fell under 2,000.

In addition to the three villages, primaries will be held in East Liverpool, Wellsville, East Palestine and Salem cities.

RICHMOND — An area family of nine was left homeless by a blaze which heavily damaged their farmhouse Thursday, Richmond volunteer firemen reported.

Mrs. Alice Echols told firemen she was walking to a neighbor's home when she turned and saw smoke coming from the attic of her farmhouse.

Racing back, she led four children to safety. Four others were in school at the time. The oldest daughter, Barbara, 17, walked two miles to a phone and summoned firemen.

The family managed to save one small trunk of clothing from the ruins. The Steubenville Red Cross Chapter offered the family shelter. Cause of the fire is undetermined.

Albania Backs Stalin On Version Of Battle

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Albania came to the defense of Josef Stalin today with an attack on the new Soviet version of the battle of Stalingrad — now Volgograd — in World War II.

In the new Soviet writing of the battle, Stalin is pictured as the blunderer and Nikita Khrushchev as the hero.

An article in the Albanian Communist Party organ Zeri I Popullit — broadcast by Radio Tirana — accused Khrushchev of distorting the truth.

Ohio AFL-CIO Hurls Charge At Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Republican state administration engaged in "false economy" by the wholesale firing of state employes without adequate notice, the Ohio AFL-CIO has charged.

Some 600 delegates to the labor organization's 1963 legislative conference said in a resolution Friday that the action was taken "without regard to the maintenance of adequate services to the people of Ohio."

It also was critical of an unsuccessful bid by the administration to eliminate Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays as holidays for state employes.

Jurors Expected To Be Picked In Professor's Trial

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Selection of jurors for the trial of Gene Isaac Stees, 30-year-old college professor charged with the fatal beating of his pregnant wife, was expected to be completed today.

Court officials called in an additional 75 veniremen after the original 75 were questioned Friday. Eleven were seated tentatively and 64 dismissed. Still needed were one juror and two alternates.

Stees, former instructor of education at Ohio University here, is accused of beating his wife, Helen, also 30, to death with a crowbar. Her body was found last Oct. 26 inside a metal drum in nearby Dow Lake.

Only one witness has been subpoenaed so far. She is Patricia Weathers, the alleged "other woman" at whose farm home Stees stayed while his wife, mother of two, lived with her parents in Ashland.

Judge John Bolin told attorneys he hoped jury selection would be completed today. He indicated the trial will require four or five days after testimony begins, probably on Monday.

UMW Votes To End Robena Mine Strike

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Members of United Mine Workers Local 6321 voted Friday to end a three-day walkout at the U.S. Steel Corp.'s Robena Mine at Carmichaels.

Some 500 of the 1,100 striking miners attended a meeting in Masontown.

Maintenance crews were to enter the mine later in the day with production crews to follow a few hours later.

The men walked out Tuesday in protest against the reported firing of a fan attendant for refusing to leave his post and go to another part of the mine, where an explosion last Dec. 6 took 37 lives.

Local President John Ozanich said U. S. Steel has agreed to rehire the attendant and keep him on his post at all times.

Acme Steel Co. Plans $4 Million Expansion

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — The Newport Acme Steel Co. plans to spend $4 million for plant expansion and improvement in the next 15 months.

A. P. Miller, Newport division president, said the expansion will create 105 jobs. It includes a broader product line and processing facilities.

A-Plant Resumes After Refueling

The Shippingport atomic power station is back in operation after the third refueling was completed in record time.

The station was shut down for 32 days to allow replacement of the highly-enriched uranium portion of the reactor core.

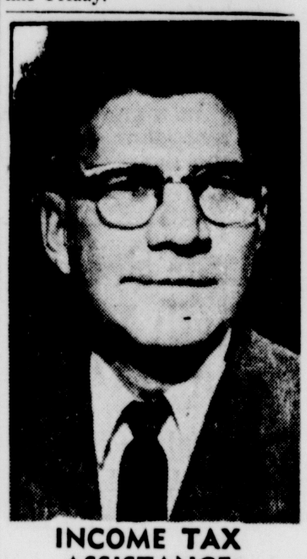

The refueling time was almost equal to the time required for the normal overhaul of a high temperature, high pressure boiler in a central power station, Philip A. Fleger, president and board chairman of the Duquesne Light Co., which operates the Shippingport facility for the Atomic Energy Commission, said.

The first refueling in 1959 required 134 days and the second in 1961 took 43 days. The last was completed Tuesday.

All three refuelings involved only the highly-enriched uranium portion of the core, Fleger said. The major portion of the original reactor consisting of natural uranium has not been replaced, he pointed out.

Regents Bill Draws Fire

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The House Education Committee will begin hearings soon on the Rhodes administration's retooled Ohio Board of Regents bill which already is causing some jitters in the state's halls of ivy.

Administration leaders say the bill is designed to bring some order out of the confusion now surrounding state university programming, financing and expansion.

But the measure has come under of the fire of some educators as representing political intrusion in the sacred field of higher education. Their objections apparently stem from a fear that university boards of trustees will lose autonomy.

Say It's Not So

Not so, say administration sources such as House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, and House Majority Whip Harry V. Jump, R-Huron.

"Under this bill, institutions will be as fully autonomous as they have been in the past," said Cloud.

Political intrusion?

"Nothing could be further from the truth," said the Speaker. "We simply need some group, an objective group, to provide the cohesion we've never had in higher education."

Jump, who introduced the revised bill Thursday, echoed Cloud's sentiments and said the bill should ease many of the problems now plaguing the state and the five universities and one college it operates.

Rep. Robert H. Longsworth, R-Carroll, who heads the House Education Committee, also sees merit in the regents plan. Longsworth, who was one of the bill's sponsors and who was among those responsible for the regents idea, said it would give Ohio a long-needed master plan for higher education.

Another endorsement from the majority side comes from Rep. Ralph E. Fisher, R-Wayne, chairman of the House Finance Committee.

Fisher Now Convinced

Fisher said he was somewhat skeptical of the regents proposal at the outset but is convinced now that it would represent a big stride in the right direction.

He pointed out that state university budget requests now are handled by the Inter-University Council, a group made up of the six state institution presidents and a trustee from each school.

Fisher and others favoring the regents bill point out that council members tend to compete with one another in a natural desire to better their own institutions. The regents would absorb the council's duties and present a statewide higher education budget recommendation to the legislature.

Under terms of the bill, none of the six regents to be appointed by the governor would be allowed to have any direct connection with a college or university while serving on the board. The other three members would be the House Speaker, Senate majority leader and the attorney general.

In some areas, the regents would have absolute power of approval or disapproval. It is in those areas that educators opposed to the bill get the jitters.

For example, the board would have power to approve or reject establishment of university branches or extensions and all other state-controlled higher education facilities.

Would Take Over Duties

The board would assume the duties of the Ohio Community College Board.

And it could require any institutions receiving state assistance, but not primarily supported by the state, to submit upon request an accounting of state fund expenditures.

The chief difference in the bill submitted Thursday from the one introduced Jan. 16 deals with standardization of boards of trustees.

Currently, all of the state's schools have seven trustees, except Miami University which has 27.

The bill would require the governor to appoint two more trustees at each school except Miami and set the terms for all at nine years instead of the current seven.

At Miami, the trustee reduction would be completed during the next five years as existing terms expire.

Only a few educators have spoken against the bill thus far, including Kent State University's retiring president, George Bowman, and Ohio Wesleyan University President Elden T. Smith.

But many others are expected to make their stand clear when committee hearings start.

Longsworth said he hopes to get the bill before his committee within a week.

Levy Planned On Fire Truck

Legislation to place a levy on the ballot for purchase of a new fire truck will be discussed at a caucus of Wellsville City Council tonight at 7.

Solicitor William Bush has prepared the necessary legislation, leaving blank the amount and the term of the levy.

Council is expected to officially act on the legislation at a meeting Tuesday night at 7:30.

Fire Chief Robert Lewis proposed the purchase of a new pumper in his annual report. The present truck is 13 years old.

Estimates of the cost run from $25,000 to $50,000.

At the meeting Tuesday night, Council also is expected to act on legislation granting pay raises to city employes. The amounts vary and details have never been announced.

The pay hikes were proposed by Mayor William Daugherty.

Council also will consider legislation governing auction licenses. The legislation will set the license requirements and amounts. One ordinance already covers licensing, but is incomplete and indefinite.

A group is considering opening ar auction sale in Wellsville.

Ruling Favors Ohio Guards On Compensation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Common Pleas Court Judge Myron B. Gessaman of Franklin County has ruled that members of the Ohio National Guard are entitled to Workmen's Compensation Act benefits during annual active duty training.

His decision Friday came in the suit of 1. Lt. James L. Williams of Hilliard who sought compensation for injuries suffered Aug. 13, 1960, in a traffic accident en route to Camp Grayling, Mich., for two weeks of active duty training. Williams is a member of the military police detachment of the 37th Infantry Division. His request had been turned down on grounds he was not employed by the state at the time but was on temporary duty as a member of the Armed Forces.

Judge Gessaman noted that the 1959 act includes Guard members, and that the federal government authorized the training period and was being paid by federal funds. But he held that Williams was under active duty orders of the governor or the commanding officer designated by the governor.

Driver Wrecks Truck In Avoiding Collision

An East Palestine trucker escaped injury when his tractor-trailer rig slammed into a utility pole at the intersection of Route 14 and 165 at Unity Friday at 12:40 p. m.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said Edwin Sensenbaugher, 29, of N. Market St., East Palestine, deliberately wrecked his rig in order to avoid a rear-end collision with another truck he was following.

Sensenbaugher was slowing to make a turn from Route 14 onto Route 165 when his brakes failed.

As he was following another truck, he swerved to the right to avoid hitting the other vehicle. His truck struck a highway marker before ramming the utility pole, officers said.

Industrial Production Up In Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's industrial production increased by 6.2 per cent in 1962, according to the annual report of the Central Office of State Control and Planning.

It said, however, agricultural production dropped below the 1961 level. No figures were given.

State Vs. Federal Law

Stage Set For Barnett's Criminal Contempt Trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The stage was set today for the criminal contempt trial of Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. The issues are state vs. federal law.

Opposing attorneys acted swiftly Friday in the face of a deadline set by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to lay final preparations for a Feb. 8 hearing—the first in the unprecedented case.

Mississippi lawyers asked that the case be dismissed. They said the two state officials acted in obedience of state laws when they tried to block the admission of Negro James H. Meredith to the University of Mississippi last fall.

Justice Department attorneys contended, in a memorandum answering the 15-part Mississippi motion, that the only issue is whether there was a willful disobedience of federal court orders.

The court has already held the two in civil contempt and set a fine of $10,000 a day and continuing imprisonment for Barnett until he complies.

However, the court hasn't imposed the penalty and hasn't said whether, or when, they purged themselves of the civil contempt.

In criminal contempt, a judge rules by a defendant's past actions and there is no second chance.

Barnett twice turned Meredith away from Ole Miss — once after the federal appeals court issued a specific order prohibiting such interference — and Johnson stopped the Negro once. Meredith enrolled Oct. 1 after a night of rioting that killed two and injured scores.

Another Negro has asked federal court to order the university to accept him as a student. Dewey Greene Jr., 22, of Greenwood, Miss., sought the action after he was turned away Thursday. Attorney William Higgs also filed a motion to have registrar Robert Ellis held in contempt for refusing to register Greene.

Sales, Vehicles Tax In County Both Gain

Collection of both sales tax and vehicles tax in Columbiana County showed gains in the week end Jan. 26, the office of State Treasurer John T. Herbert reported at Columbus.

Sales tax collections were $38,703 against $25,098 for the comparable week in 1962, and for the fiscal year to date they stand at $673,559, down slightly from the previous period total of $675,621.

The motor vehicles tax collection was $10,612 against $7,153 for the 1962 week, and $340,585 and $279,322 for the comparable fiscal periods.

Receives URA Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Urban Renewal Administration has announced a $39,100 advance to Norwood, Ohio, to help the community plan its first urban renewal project.

NAACP Names Jobs Committee

A three - member committee was appointed at a meeting of the East Liverpool branch of the NAACP Friday evening to explore the improvement of job opportunities for Negroes in the city.

It includes Mrs. Elizabeth Carter, Mrs. Myrtle Douglas and Griffin Washington.

Plans were discussed to hold a special program in March commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation. Harold Strickland of Columbus, field secretary of the Ohio NAACP, will be guest speaker.

Business was conducted by Jack Veney, vice president, in the absence of Alonzo Spencer, president. Donations were made to the Mental Health Clinic and the Freedom Fund of the NAACP.

The next meeting is March 1, also at the Leavell funeral parlor on Pennsylvania Ave.

Husband Arrested In Slaying Of Wife

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Mary Ann Sanders, 28, of Akron, was shot to death today in a tavern parking lot. Police arrested her estranged husband, Rube Sanders, 33, and charged him with first-degree murder.

Police said Sanders admitted the slaying after he was arrested near the tavern.

Herbert Hilton, 24, who left the tavern with Mrs. Sanders, was unharmed. Police said six shots were fired and two hit the woman.

Sanders waived a preliminary hearing in court and was bound over to the grand jury.

Regents Bill Draws Fire

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The House Education Committee will begin hearings soon on the Rhodes administration's retooled Ohio Board of Regents bill which already is causing some jitters in the state's halls of ivy.

Administration leaders say the bill is designed to bring some order out of the confusion now surrounding state university programming, financing and expansion.

But the measure has come under of the fire of some educators as representing political intrusion in the sacred field of higher education. Their objections apparently stem from a fear that university boards of trustees will lose autonomy.

Say It's Not So

Not so, say administration sources such as House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, and House Majority Whip Harry V. Jump, R-Huron.

"Under this bill, institutions will be as fully autonomous as they have been in the past," said Cloud.

Political intrusion?

"Nothing could be further from the truth," said the Speaker. "We simply need some group, an objective group, to provide the cohesion we've never had in higher education."

Jump, who introduced the revised bill Thursday, echoed Cloud's sentiments and said the bill should ease many of the problems now plaguing the state and the five universities and one college it operates.

Rep. Robert H. Longsworth, R-Carroll, who heads the House Education Committee, also sees merit in the regents plan. Longsworth, who was one of the bill's sponsors and who was among those responsible for the regents idea, said it would give Ohio a long-needed master plan for higher education.

Another endorsement from the majority side comes from Rep. Ralph E. Fisher, R-Wayne, chairman of the House Finance Committee.

Fisher Now Convinced

Fisher said he was somewhat skeptical of the regents proposal at the outset but is convinced now that it would represent a big stride in the right direction.

He pointed out that state university budget requests now are handled by the Inter-University Council, a group made up of the six state institution presidents and a trustee from each school.

Fisher and others favoring the regents bill point out that council members tend to compete with one another in a natural desire to better their own institutions. The regents would absorb the council's duties and present a statewide higher education budget recommendation to the legislature.

Under terms of the bill, none of the six regents to be appointed by the governor would be allowed to have any direct connection with a college or university while serving on the board. The other three members would be the House Speaker, Senate majority leader and the attorney general.

In some areas, the regents would have absolute power of approval or disapproval. It is in those areas that educators opposed to the bill get the jitters.

For example, the board would have power to approve or reject establishment of university branches or extensions and all other state-controlled higher education facilities.

Would Take Over Duties

The board would assume the duties of the Ohio Community College Board.

And it could require any institutions receiving state assistance, but not primarily supported by the state, to submit upon request an accounting of state fund expenditures.

The chief difference in the bill submitted Thursday from the one introduced Jan. 16 deals with standardization of boards of trustees.

Currently, all of the state's schools have seven trustees, except Miami University which has 27.

The bill would require the governor to appoint two more trustees at each school except Miami and set the terms for all at nine years instead of the current seven.

At Miami, the trustee reduction would be completed during the next five years as existing terms expire.

Only a few educators have spoken against the bill thus far, including Kent State University's retiring president, George Bowman, and Ohio Wesleyan University President Elden T. Smith.

But many others are expected to make their stand clear when committee hearings start.

Longsworth said he hopes to get the bill before his committee within a week.

Levy Planned On Fire Truck

Legislation to place a levy on the ballot for purchase of a new fire truck will be discussed at a caucus of Wellsville City Council tonight at 7.

Solicitor William Bush has prepared the necessary legislation, leaving blank the amount and the term of the levy.

Council is expected to officially act on the legislation at a meeting Tuesday night at 7:30.

Fire Chief Robert Lewis proposed the purchase of a new pumper in his annual report. The present truck is 13 years old.

Estimates of the cost run from $25,000 to $50,000.

At the meeting Tuesday night, Council also is expected to act on legislation granting pay raises to city employes. The amounts vary and details have never been announced.

The pay hikes were proposed by Mayor William Daugherty.

Council also will consider legislation governing auction licenses. The legislation will set the license requirements and amounts. One ordinance already covers licensing, but is incomplete and indefinite.

A group is considering opening ar auction sale in Wellsville.

Driver Wrecks Truck In Avoiding Collision

An East Palestine trucker escaped injury when his tractor-trailer rig slammed into a utility pole at the intersection of Route 14 and 165 at Unity Friday at 12:40 p. m.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said Edwin Sensenbaugher, 29, of N. Market St., East Palestine, deliberately wrecked his rig in order to avoid a rear-end collision with another truck he was following.

Sensenbaugher was slowing to make a turn from Route 14 onto Route 165 when his brakes failed.

As he was following another truck, he swerved to the right to avoid hitting the other vehicle. His truck struck a highway marker before ramming the utility pole, officers said.

Industrial Production Up In Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's industrial production increased by 6.2 per cent in 1962, according to the annual report of the Central Office of State Control and Planning.

It said, however, agricultural production dropped below the 1961 level. No figures were given.

Ruling Favors Ohio Guards On Compensation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Common Pleas Court Judge Myron B. Gessaman of Franklin County has ruled that members of the Ohio National Guard are entitled to Workmen's Compensation Act benefits during annual active duty training.

His decision Friday came in the suit of 1. Lt. James L. Williams of Hilliard who sought compensation for injuries suffered Aug. 13, 1960, in a traffic accident en route to Camp Grayling, Mich., for two weeks of active duty training. Williams is a member of the military police detachment of the 37th Infantry Division. His request had been turned down on grounds he was not employed by the state at the time but was on temporary duty as a member of the Armed Forces.

Judge Gessaman noted that the 1959 act includes Guard members, and that the federal government authorized the training period and was being paid by federal funds. But he held that Williams was under active duty orders of the governor or the commanding officer designated by the governor.

State Vs. Federal Law

Stage Set For Barnett's Criminal Contempt Trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The stage was set today for the criminal contempt trial of Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. The issues are state vs. federal law.

Opposing attorneys acted swiftly Friday in the face of a deadline set by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to lay final preparations for a Feb. 8 hearing—the first in the unprecedented case.

Mississippi lawyers asked that the case be dismissed. They said the two state officials acted in obedience of state laws when they tried to block the admission of Negro James H. Meredith to the University of Mississippi last fall.

Justice Department attorneys contended, in a memorandum answering the 15-part Mississippi motion, that the only issue is whether there was a willful disobedience of federal court orders.

Suddenly Or By Degrees?

Not since World War II has there been attention given to the most horrible idea spawned in the minds of unbalanced men—nihilism.

It is the doctrine that destruction is desirable for its own sake because things are so bad it would be better to start over than to make piecemeal improvements.

It has been toyed with in Russia. The Nazi used it against the Jews. And now it has appeared in the preachments of Chinese Communists.

The issue between them and Communists represented by Nikita Khrushchev is whether Russia and its satellites should side in with China and its satellites in a project to destroy mankind and start fresh in a new world.

The issue can be stated that bluntly.

THESE EXCERPTS are from Khrushchev's speech to the Congress of the East German Socialist Unity party in mid-January:

"No doubt that as a result of a world thermonuclear war . . . the war-breeding capitalists would inevitably perish. But would the Socialist countries . . . benefit by a worldwide thermonuclear catastrophe? Only people who consciously close their eyes to facts can think so . . . (Marxists-Leninists) cannot conceive the creation of a Communist civilization on the ruins of the world cultural centers, upon an earth deserted and poisoned by thermonuclear fallout . . . Comrades, to put it in a nutshell . . . it is not advisable to be in a hurry for the other world.

"As it is said, blessed is he who chatters about war and does not understand what he is chattering about. The Albanian leaders chatter much about rocket nuclear war . . . Except for chatter they have nothing to their name . . . As you see, in these matters we have different positions and different responsibilities."

IN THIS "great debate" among Communists, the Khrushchev faction has joined the Fabian socialists, who took the position that England should be converted gradually to socialism, not bludgeoned into it with a blood-letting.

There now are Fabian Communists. They find life worth living. They would rather remain red than dead.

Their belief that they can wear down capitalism and co-exist with it in the meantime is hateful to the all-out Communist leaders of China who, holding human life in no regard, see nothing wrong in wiping out mankind. They obviously believe enough Chinese would be left to make a fresh start.

This is in a fair way to be the dominant question of the 20th century's remaining decades. It is why every potential victim of all-out nuclear warfare must try to understand the quarrel between Moscow and Peiping.

They cannot agree on how we are to be killed—with one big burst, or by degrees.

France At Turning-Off Point

The mischief President de Gaulle's bristling hostility to Britain's membership in the Common Market will do is immeasurable.

But the enormity of his offense against not only the unity of Europe but the unity of the non-Communist world can be sensed in evidence of a new isolationism.

British reaction to the De Gaulle snub has been a mixture of disappointment and disenchantment. British opinion had been prepared for a break-through into a new era of Common Market trade and the eventual political unity that is supposed to evolve out of economic cooperation.

Responsible spokesmen for the Macmillan government and the Conservative party now are making frantic promises to continue their efforts in this direction, despite the De Gaulle snub. But their work is cut out for them. Their people are in no mood to be snubbed again.

The United Kingdom will obey the natural impulse to pull back from the European unity movement. This is the dangerous psychology that turned opinion in the United States toward isolationism after its post World War I disenchantment in Europe.

THE UNITED STATES is involved in the disenchantment too. The De Gaulle snub to Britain was intended equally as a snub to the United States.

The French president has been stiffly anti-American in his remarks. He resents British cooperation with the United States. He regards the British government and people as being under U.S. influence, indeed under U.S. domination.

He has no inclination to think about Verdun, the Marne, Dunkerque and the Ardennes. His thoughts are of Napoleon and the era of Franch expansionism. He makes it clear he does not like the United States.

There could be nothing accidental about this.

It is momentous. It has been studied. Its effects have been calculated. It has opened the terrifying possibility of a French turn toward the Soviet Union, which De Gaulle always has regarded as just another member of the great-power bloc, with no special misgivings about Communist control of the government and the people.

WHEN THE reaction develops and Americans realize they have been snubbed as harshly as Britons, there will be a resurgence of isolationism here, too.

It never should be surprising, but it always is—the recurrent "discovery" that nations have no friends, only traveling companions going in the same direction until they reach a turning-off place.

President de Gaulle believes France has come to the turning-off point.

'Sabbatical Year'

If United Rubber Workers makes a talking point in contract negotiations this year of one year in seven off on job with full pay, the ideal will be novel only in its application.

The idea is the "sabbatical year" of Jewish antiquity — the one year in seven when Israelites were commanded to let their fields lie fallow.

In modern usage, a "sabbatical year" is the one spent away from the classroom by a college professor. It usually is used for study and research.

The professor is paid for his "sabbatical year" when it is granted. In institutions that can afford it, the privilege of "lying fallow," with a view to becoming more useful in the future, is regarded as a special prerogative of high-level teaching.

This is the same viewpoint taken on teachers in general, who are expected to utilize their time off to upgrading their usefulness.

It is perhaps to be expected that a rubber worker on his "sabbatical year" would be willing to go to school to improve his skill? Or must it be assumed that one year in seven would be a work-free ride, plus annual vacations during each of the other six years in each cycle?

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: I suppose you are right about the Frenchman De Gaulle; he has gone off his rocker. But when?

If that is what has befallen the poor fellow, we shouldn't be surprised. Logic and sanity always have been the exceptional traits in national leadership.

De Gaulle has departed from logic and sanity in the opinion of the logical, sane men who are his contemporaries. All of them are in a state of shock over his irrational decision to shatter European unity.

They thought they were on the track of something that would put an end to bloodletting. They thought they finally had substituted rationality for the endless wars that have weakened and improverished Europe.

They figured without De Gaulle. They made a classic blunder.

The blunder was to make plans on the supposition that things would be done logically.

When that fat little horror of a Mussolini and the twitchy paranoid Hitler ran amuck, no one had a net ready to catch them and put them away in the booby hatch before they started World War II. The logical men who had figured out the League of Nations did not take into account what might happen if illogical men toppled it.

Political leaders are almost never logical. Let's face it. Politics is not logic. It is an emotional binge that people indulge in at the urging of professional emotionalists, the politicians.

De Gaulle is doing to Frenchmen what Hitler did to the Germans. He is telling them to string along with him and he will revive nationalist glory in France. Who ever said Napoleon was logical? The guy was nutty as a fruit cake.

What do Frenchmen look back on with sweet nostalgia? Napoleon! Those were the good old days, when a strutting little Corsican was leading Frenchmen into battle in Spain, Italy, Russia, Egypt and you name it. It made no sense, but they loved it.

I wouldn't bet the French aren't going to back up President de Gaulle on the same basis. After all, what is he proposing? Simply that La Belle France once again stand 10 feet high and become the big noise on the Continent, now that Germany is out of the running.

It is not logical. It is a blow to the high hopes of the logical men whose Common Market ideas have been working so well they have given Charles de Gaulle an economic leg to stand on. But don't be surprised if he has judged French sentiment correctly. Hitler knew what the Germans would go for and gave it to them. De Gaulle is giving the French what he thinks they want.

It's a tough break for the men of logic who thought they were in the saddle and couldn't be toppled. But when haven't they been toppled? It happens every time. Politics is emotion, not logic.

Your aunt says she never knew before she was hooked up with a statesmen. I can't imagine how she lived with me this long without knowing that diplomacy was my long suit.

Regards to all the family.

Reuther Takes On The Big Ones

By Victor Riesel

Walter Reuther now is all set to take on the big ones — the biggest, in fact, still outside the fold. None other than E. I. du Pont de Nemours, through a "Du Pont Organizing Committee."

Victor Riesel

He has picked a brilliant "young" chief of staff to coordinate his many drives — unionizing campaigns, legislative offensives, political drives, and constant contact with the topmost men in the U. S. government, meaning, of course, the White House and Bob Kennedy.

Walter's alter ego and alter idem, too, will be Jack Conway, an insider's insider. He's a 45-year-old all - purpose idea man, organizer, administrator, executive.

He is expert in media of many kinds, including the airwaves. He knows labor as few do.

And he knows the New Frontier as few labor men do. He's been in the inner government circle since early 1961.

At that time, he left his post as Reuther's administrative assistant in Detroit to take on the post of deputy administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. That's where he worked officially. And he worked well.

HE SOON became one of Bob Kennedy's good friends. He was called on for much advice on labor —national and international.

He is in the New Frontier social set as well. In many ways he is more influential in the Kennedy circles than virtually all the known labor leaders.

His contact with the White House "ins" is Ken O'Donnell, the President's political confidant and special assistant. You can't get much closer to the rocking chair than O'Donnell.

In a few days, Jack Conway, ex-General Motors auto worker, ex-college instructor, ex-radio production man who came to influence inside the UAW when Reuther took over back in 1946, will leave the government and become Reuther's executive assistant at the Industrial Union Dept. of the AFL-CIO.

This is thought of as "the old CIO." It has 60 affiliated unions and a treasury of more than $3 million. It's this department which is launching the new five-target area and two industry drive.

THE TWO industries are the textile and wood and furniture fields. This will take the IUD organizers into the "Southeast" where there are millions of non-union members.

But it can also be reported that the du Pont organizing committee will be "unveiled" soon after the Textile Organizing Committee and the Furniture and Wood Products Organizing Committee are launched in the next few weeks.

The du Pont drive will be discussed at the IUD "operations committee" session in Washington on Feb. 15th.

Du Pont is to the labor movement what Liz Taylor is to a movie maker. For years one AFL-CIO union or another has been attempting to unionize the firm's 80 plants in 28 states. At the moment the International Association of Machinists, led by Al Hayes, is quietly moving against some of the plants.

Du Pont employs 51,000 "wage roll" employes. About 60 per cent belong to .ndependent unions. To men such as Reuther an independent outfit is about as useful as a barber in a detachment of Castro militia.

SINCE THERE are only 6 per cent of du Pont's workers in AFL-CIO unions, the big chemical company — with its fabrics, nylons, paints, footwear, film, biochemicals, electrochemicals and lawn and garden products — is a succulent and dramatic target.

Since Reuther is also determined to unionize white - collar workers, technicians, researchers and engineers, a successful drive on the company would give unionism the prestige it needs among the younger "technocratic" employes of today's space age. Reuther then could move on to another goal — organization of hundreds of thousands of government employes.

These are vast plans, indeed—especally when coupled with parallel political and legislative campaigns. So he is building up a team of trustworthy, completely competent men.

He will concentrate much of his legislative and political activity in Washington. His self - effacing brother Roy will spend considerable time here. Thus Reuther will have brothers Victor and Roy in Washington.

Coupled with Jack Conway, they'll make a hard-hitting team on the industrial and political and congressional fronts.

It's a strategy that worked in Franklin Roosevelt's day. It will help in John Kennedy's era.

Britain For Birds

By Richard Fitter

LONDON

On a rough calculation, the lives of at least a million wild birds are being saved at this moment by kind-hearted British householders.

The great majority of the birds that wait expectantly at hundreds of thousands of backdoors every day this winter would die of cold and hunger if their daily ration did not appear.

At my own backdoor some 70 birds of 14 different species have become our pensioners. Blackbirds are the most numerous, totalling a score, but there are also song thrushes, robins, chaffinches, hedge and house sparrows, three kinds of titmice, nuthatches, starlings, jays, wood pigeon and, for a time, a redwing.

The redwing was then found dead in its roost, a warning of the fate of the others if we do not go on feeding them.

SO FAR, considering the severity of the cold, remarkably few birds seem to have perished. This may be because of several factors.

The hard weather set in unusually early, at a time when many birds were still completing their annual migration, and this may have stimulated many of them to move on further south in November and December.

There also has been a particularly good crop of haws and other berries on both wild and garden shrubs, providing more food, especially for the thrushes.

There may be fewer of some species than in normal winters, so that the food supply goes further. This might be because of a poor nesting season or, as the Norfolk naturalist, E. A. Ellis, has suggested, because bird numbers have already been heavily reduced by seed-dressings and other poisonous farm chemicals.

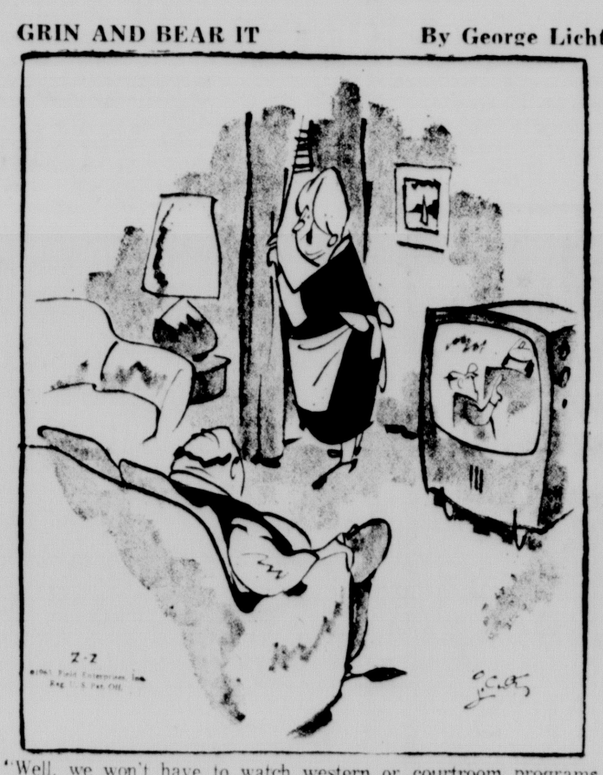

In fact, we do not know enough about the normal numbers of common birds to say whether this is so or not, and one of the aims of the Common Bird Census, promoted by the Nature Conservancy through the British Trust for Ornithology, is to find out more about them.

FOR BIRDS that get their living by searching twigs and branches for insect foods, the greatest peril of a hard winter is icing up; when every twig is thickly encased in ice.

In the great ice storm of January, 1940, when many birds were frozen to boughs by the ice a Plinlimmon shepherd found a buzzard with its wings so encased with ice that it could fly only a few yards at a time.

Undoubtedly the worst winter of the century for bird life was 1916-17, when the cold continued through March and April. The birds that suffered then, and may be expected to suffer again, included the goldcrest and long-tailed tit, which were almost exterminated in Britain, and the rest of the tits, thrushes, robins and stonechats, which lost half or more of their breeding stock.

Tax Proposal Seen Threatening Kennedy Status

It may take a little while before the new facts of tax life sink in and, when they do, there may be widespread discontent as the citizens discover that a tax cut is to be accompanied by a tax rise. While the net change may be a slight reduction in taxes for the individual, the psychology that will prevail is that the government is giving something with one hand and taking it away with the other.

David Lawrence

While it is easy enough to show that taxpayers in all brackets may come out with a slight cut in taxes, the person who makes out a return will have the feeling that somehow the government, though reducing his tax rate, is trying to get nearly all of it back by a penalizing system of amendments to the tax rules.

The biggest source of dissatisfaction is the so-called 5 per cent "floor" on all deductions. Whether it be a charitable contributions, the interest on one's house mortgage, losses sustained that are not covered by insurance, or even allowance for state income and property taxes paid, the fact remains that the new rules would deprive many taxpayers of a part of the deductions enjoyed almost since the day when the present income tax laws and regulations were first written.

A PERSON WHO made out his will years ago now faces some substantial changes which will mean he will leave his wife or children less money than had been contemplated. Why should a legal document drawn up years ago as a trust, for instance, suddenly be affected by a retroactive tax law?

To cut through human habits and customs and revolutionize them on the theory that this is a desirable "tax reform" is to damage the party in power.

The planned-deficit policy will be vigorously debated.

While the average man may feel the subject is over his head, the chances are that, after all the hullabaloo about tax reductions, if he winds up with tax savings of only a few cents a week — as the government goes into the red by many billions of dollars — he will finally say, "let well enough alone."

For if the proposed tax plan goes through, there will be many individuals who will be adversely affected, and many non-profit institutions will find it hard sledding. Tax rules operate in so many different sectors that there are bound to be some who benefit or who are not materially affected.

Gratitude in political life, however, is less important than dissatisfaction. Those who are hurt will be vocal. Those who will be moderately benefitted will be indifferent.

The administration's gamble is that there will be more money over-all to spend, and that this will bring prosperity and thus decrease unemployment.

THERE'S A difference between a "planned" deficit, such as is being proposed and those deficits of the past which came naturally as the business curve turned downward. Deliberately to plan to put the government into the red by many billions serves notice on everybody. It means that somehow there has to be a psychology of spending rather than saving on the new tax reductions.

The confusion that may result from the far-reaching penalties that the new tax law would impose could cause a period of hesitation in the economy which would be costly all around.

Economic discontent has swung many an election away from the incumbent.

William Howard Taft was elected in 1908 on a wave of prosperity, and he got one of the biggest majorities in the electoral college up to that time.

He was a jovial, good-natured man who was extremely popular when he was inaugurated in March 1909. Less than two years later, his popularity took a nose dive after he signed a tariff bill that failed to cut down the cost of living. It was the key issue of the times. His party was split, and he was defeated in 1912.

Harry Truman in 1946 was at the low point of his political strength after a mid-term election that gave the Republicans control of both houses. This was due to the high cost of food because of delays in removing price controls after World War II.

He overcame some of the dissatisfaction and won by a narrow margin of popular votes in 1948.

THERE ARE other instances of adverse impact of policies or voter discontent. Herbert Hoover was elected by a huge majority in 1928, carrying almost every northern state and some southern states. But in 1930 his party lost control of Congress, and in 1932 Mr. Hoover was the victim of a landslide due to the depression.

He had had little to do with its origin, as the whole world was involved in an economic readjustment, but the voters took their grievances out on his administration just the same.

President Kennedy's popularity, as measured in public opinion polls, is high today, but if the present tax law is enacted, it may spell the doom of both the President and his party in November 1964.

Politicians are supposed to be smart enough to watch out for the votes of big groups. The taxpayers constitute the biggest single group in the whole population. Millions of them will be dissatisfied with the new plan when they make out their income tax returns early in 1964. It may be too late then to remedy the political mistakes that will have inflicted deep wounds and created widespread discontent.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Members of the Senior class of Wells High School, Newell, voted to wear caps and gowns during graduation in May.

Fire, believed to have resulted from a short circuit, destroyed the garage and a new car owned by Roy Fiber of Wellsville.

The Rev. Robert Andrews, pastor of the Chester Church of the Nazarene, was recalled for another year and C. A. Barnes was re-elected Sunday School superintendent.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — E. D. McNicol of Florida Ave., Chester, left for Washington for instruction in Red Cross field directing work.

TEN YEARS AGO — Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Metsch of W. 4th St. left on a South American cruise.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

Letters have been published recently expressing thanks for fire services, etc. I would again like to express my profound thanks and admiration to the Calcutta Fire Department for services rendered in the past year. I cannot speak too highly of these two groups. They have given a service to Calcutta residents that is in my opinion "Nulli-Secundus".

Suddenly Or By Degrees?

Not since World War II has there been attention given to the most horrible idea spawned in the minds of unbalanced men—nihilism.

It is the doctrine that destruction is desirable for its own sake because things are so bad it would be better to start over than to make piecemeal improvements.

It has been toyed with in Russia. The Nazi used it against the Jews. And now it has appeared in the preachments of Chinese Communists.

The issue between them and Communists represented by Nikita Khrushchev is whether Russia and its satellites should side in with China and its satellites in a project to destroy mankind and start fresh in a new world.

The issue can be stated that bluntly.

THESE EXCERPTS are from Khrushchev's speech to the Congress of the East German Socialist Unity party in mid-January:

"No doubt that as a result of a world thermonuclear war . . . the war-breeding capitalists would inevitably perish. But would the Socialist countries . . . benefit by a worldwide thermonuclear catastrophe? Only people who consciously close their eyes to facts can think so . . . (Marxists-Leninists) cannot conceive the creation of a Communist civilization on the ruins of the world cultural centers, upon an earth deserted and poisoned by thermonuclear fallout . . . Comrades, to put it in a nutshell . . . it is not advisable to be in a hurry for the other world.

"As it is said, blessed is he who chatters about war and does not understand what he is chattering about. The Albanian leaders chatter much about rocket nuclear war . . . Except for chatter they have nothing to their name . . . As you see, in these matters we have different positions and different responsibilities."

IN THIS "great debate" among Communists, the Khrushchev faction has joined the Fabian socialists, who took the position that England should be converted gradually to socialism, not bludgeoned into it with a blood-letting.

There now are Fabian Communists. They find life worth living. They would rather remain red than dead.

Their belief that they can wear down capitalism and co-exist with it in the meantime is hateful to the all-out Communist leaders of China who, holding human life in no regard, see nothing wrong in wiping out mankind. They obviously believe enough Chinese would be left to make a fresh start.

This is in a fair way to be the dominant question of the 20th century's remaining decades. It is why every potential victim of all-out nuclear warfare must try to understand the quarrel between Moscow and Peiping.

They cannot agree on how we are to be killed—with one big burst, or by degrees.

France At Turning-Off Point

The mischief President de Gaulle's bristling hostility to Britain's membership in the Common Market will do is immeasurable.

But the enormity of his offense against not only the unity of Europe but the unity of the non-Communist world can be sensed in evidence of a new isolationism.

British reaction to the De Gaulle snub has been a mixture of disappointment and disenchantment. British opinion had been prepared for a break-through into a new era of Common Market trade and the eventual political unity that is supposed to evolve out of economic cooperation.

Responsible spokesmen for the Macmillan government and the Conservative party now are making frantic promises to continue their efforts in this direction, despite the De Gaulle snub. But their work is cut out for them. Their people are in no mood to be snubbed again.

The United Kingdom will obey the natural impulse to pull back from the European unity movement. This is the dangerous psychology that turned opinion in the United States toward isolationism after its post World War I disenchantment in Europe.

THE UNITED STATES is involved in the disenchantment too. The De Gaulle snub to Britain was intended equally as a snub to the United States.

The French president has been stiffly anti-American in his remarks. He resents British cooperation with the United States. He regards the British government and people as being under U.S. influence, indeed under U.S. domination.

He has no inclination to think about Verdun, the Marne, Dunkerque and the Ardennes. His thoughts are of Napoleon and the era of Franch expansionism. He makes it clear he does not like the United States.

There could be nothing accidental about this.

It is momentous. It has been studied. Its effects have been calculated. It has opened the terrifying possibility of a French turn toward the Soviet Union, which De Gaulle always has regarded as just another member of the great-power bloc, with no special misgivings about Communist control of the government and the people.

WHEN THE reaction develops and Americans realize they have been snubbed as harshly as Britons, there will be a resurgence of isolationism here, too.

It never should be surprising, but it always is—the recurrent "discovery" that nations have no friends, only traveling companions going in the same direction until they reach a turning-off place.

President de Gaulle believes France has come to the turning-off point.

'Sabbatical Year'

If United Rubber Workers makes a talking point in contract negotiations this year of one year in seven off on job with full pay, the ideal will be novel only in its application.

The idea is the "sabbatical year" of Jewish antiquity — the one year in seven when Israelites were commanded to let their fields lie fallow.

In modern usage, a "sabbatical year" is the one spent away from the classroom by a college professor. It usually is used for study and research.

The professor is paid for his "sabbatical year" when it is granted. In institutions that can afford it, the privilege of "lying fallow," with a view to becoming more useful in the future, is regarded as a special prerogative of high-level teaching.

This is the same viewpoint taken on teachers in general, who are expected to utilize their time off to upgrading their usefulness.

It is perhaps to be expected that a rubber worker on his "sabbatical year" would be willing to go to school to improve his skill? Or must it be assumed that one year in seven would be a work-free ride, plus annual vacations during each of the other six years in each cycle?

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: I suppose you are right about the Frenchman De Gaulle; he has gone off his rocker. But when?

If that is what has befallen the poor fellow, we shouldn't be surprised. Logic and sanity always have been the exceptional traits in national leadership.

De Gaulle has departed from logic and sanity in the opinion of the logical, sane men who are his contemporaries. All of them are in a state of shock over his irrational decision to shatter European unity.

They thought they were on the track of something that would put an end to bloodletting. They thought they finally had substituted rationality for the endless wars that have weakened and improverished Europe.

They figured without De Gaulle. They made a classic blunder.

The blunder was to make plans on the supposition that things would be done logically.

When that fat little horror of a Mussolini and the twitchy paranoid Hitler ran amuck, no one had a net ready to catch them and put them away in the booby hatch before they started World War II. The logical men who had figured out the League of Nations did not take into account what might happen if illogical men toppled it.

Political leaders are almost never logical. Let's face it. Politics is not logic. It is an emotional binge that people indulge in at the urging of professional emotionalists, the politicians.

De Gaulle is doing to Frenchmen what Hitler did to the Germans. He is telling them to string along with him and he will revive nationalist glory in France. Who ever said Napoleon was logical? The guy was nutty as a fruit cake.

What do Frenchmen look back on with sweet nostalgia? Napoleon! Those were the good old days, when a strutting little Corsican was leading Frenchmen into battle in Spain, Italy, Russia, Egypt and you name it. It made no sense, but they loved it.

I wouldn't bet the French aren't going to back up President de Gaulle on the same basis. After all, what is he proposing? Simply that La Belle France once again stand 10 feet high and become the big noise on the Continent, now that Germany is out of the running.

It is not logical. It is a blow to the high hopes of the logical men whose Common Market ideas have been working so well they have given Charles de Gaulle an economic leg to stand on. But don't be surprised if he has judged French sentiment correctly. Hitler knew what the Germans would go for and gave it to them. De Gaulle is giving the French what he thinks they want.

It's a tough break for the men of logic who thought they were in the saddle and couldn't be toppled. But when haven't they been toppled? It happens every time. Politics is emotion, not logic.

Your aunt says she never knew before she was hooked up with a statesmen. I can't imagine how she lived with me this long without knowing that diplomacy was my long suit.

Regards to all the family.

Reuther Takes On The Big Ones

By Victor Riesel

Walter Reuther now is all set to take on the big ones — the biggest, in fact, still outside the fold. None other than E. I. du Pont de Nemours, through a "Du Pont Organizing Committee."

Victor Riesel

He has picked a brilliant "young" chief of staff to coordinate his many drives — unionizing campaigns, legislative offensives, political drives, and constant contact with the topmost men in the U. S. government, meaning, of course, the White House and Bob Kennedy.

Walter's alter ego and alter idem, too, will be Jack Conway, an insider's insider. He's a 45-year-old all - purpose idea man, organizer, administrator, executive.

He is expert in media of many kinds, including the airwaves. He knows labor as few do.

And he knows the New Frontier as few labor men do. He's been in the inner government circle since early 1961.

At that time, he left his post as Reuther's administrative assistant in Detroit to take on the post of deputy administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. That's where he worked officially. And he worked well.

HE SOON became one of Bob Kennedy's good friends. He was called on for much advice on labor —national and international.

He is in the New Frontier social set as well. In many ways he is more influential in the Kennedy circles than virtually all the known labor leaders.

His contact with the White House "ins" is Ken O'Donnell, the President's political confidant and special assistant. You can't get much closer to the rocking chair than O'Donnell.

In a few days, Jack Conway, ex-General Motors auto worker, ex-college instructor, ex-radio production man who came to influence inside the UAW when Reuther took over back in 1946, will leave the government and become Reuther's executive assistant at the Industrial Union Dept. of the AFL-CIO.

This is thought of as "the old CIO." It has 60 affiliated unions and a treasury of more than $3 million. It's this department which is launching the new five-target area and two industry drive.

THE TWO industries are the textile and wood and furniture fields. This will take the IUD organizers into the "Southeast" where there are millions of non-union members.

But it can also be reported that the du Pont organizing committee will be "unveiled" soon after the Textile Organizing Committee and the Furniture and Wood Products Organizing Committee are launched in the next few weeks.

The du Pont drive will be discussed at the IUD "operations committee" session in Washington on Feb. 15th.

Du Pont is to the labor movement what Liz Taylor is to a movie maker. For years one AFL-CIO union or another has been attempting to unionize the firm's 80 plants in 28 states. At the moment the International Association of Machinists, led by Al Hayes, is quietly moving against some of the plants.

ing clouds were accompanied by fog and drizzle.

The downpour in California did more than cause floods and drive persons from their homes — the rain fell at 8,000 feet in the mountains, melting snow and costing the state part of its anticipated supply of water for the summer.

The overflow on the eastern side of the Sierra which escaped the Truckee River and stood up to 4 feet high in downtown Reno, began receding.

But one thing didn't stop in Reno — gambling. It went on as usual.

Helicopters and boats rescued flood-marooned families in northern California. About 250 persons were evacuated from Napa, where the water spread four blocks from the river.

The Feather River crested safely below the danger point in Yuba City-Marysville, the scene of a flood in 1955 which took 38 lives.

All major highways linking northern California with the East were blocked by rock slides and flood waters pounding at bridge approaches. Service on major rail lines was interrupted.

Among tne nine persons killed in California was 9-year-old John Carter, who left his San Rafael home Wednesday to look at the violent weather. His body was found in a storm drain across the street from his school.

California's Division of Highways said north-south U.S. 99 and 101 were the only major routes open without restrictions in the northern half of the state. It will take days to repair U.S. 40 near the Sierra's Donner Pass. During the height of Thursday's storm, the highway was turned into a bed for the raging South Fork of the Yuba River.

As the thaw extended to northern Oregon, it produced rain which froze on iced power lines, dropped them to the ground and isolated vast areas from the coast 100 miles inland. Thousands in the Portland area were without power.

The destructive winds which shook Colorado, Wyoming and Montana have calmed, but a new cold wave is building up for the area, according to the Weather Bureau.

In southern Idaho, the raging floods took their toll.

Hardest hit by the surging runoff from three days of torrential rains was the little southeastern town of Bancroft, where most of the 450 residents fled from their homes as water reached the windshields of stranded cars.

Carter told fellow police he was headed east on Bradshaw Ave. but was unable to see the mound because of an approaching car. There were no warning lights around the high snow bank, he said.

A mishap at 1:20 p.m. yesterday on May St. involved a backing auto operated by William E. Savors, 27, of 305 Alton St. and a parked car of Roy J. Flowers, 929 May St.

Savors told police he ran out of gas climbing the steep grade and started to back down the street. When he put the car in reverse gear, the engine kicked over and he slid sideways into Flowers' 1958 auto, he explained. The left front fender and bumper of the parked car was damaged but there was no damage to the Savors auto, police said.

$60,000 Fund Transfer Set By Council

Council is scheduled to act Monday night on legislation authorizing a $60,000 transfer to the general fund from income tax receipts to help meet municipal payrolls pending distribution of the first real estate tax collections from Lisbon.

The proposed transfer was worked out as a way of meeting the city's most pressing obligations without issuing notes to commercial banks, which would entail interest charges.

A recent reappraisal of county real estate values is expected to delay collection of taxes, meaning the distribution to cities and other subdivisions will be later than usual.

County Auditor Kenneth Bell indicated at Lisbon in mid - week the collection probably would be launched in late February, with April 10 set tentatively as the closing date for the payments.

As a result, city officials said they do not expect that the first tax money will be received from the county prior to April 1, or possibly May 1.

The legislation, in effect, will authorize use of up to $60,000 to help meet city payrolls pending payment of the real estate tax money. Without the alternate source of revenue represented by the income tax, the city would have been required to borrow to meet its payrolls and other expenses, officials indicated.

The same measure will provide a $500 appropriation to pay the tuition and other expenses of Lt. William E. McDaniel in attending a 15-week police course at Western Reserve University in Cleveland. The class begins Monday.

Council gave informal approval to the appropriation at its meeting Jan. 21, acting on a request from Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi. The chief said the class will cover various phases of law enforcement and crime detection, meeting two days weekly for 15 weeks.

(P. S. The groundhog couldn't see his shadow this morning because of rainy skies. According to tradition, that means an early spring.)

Meanwhile, street crews continued to work today to remove snow and open gutters to allow excess water to drain away from low-lying places.

Because the city's stock of cinders is almost exhausted, four trucks, including three from the street department and an incinerator truck were being used to haul ashes from Midland, Street Supt. W. M. Laughlin said.

Despite the lack of equipment, a crew using a smaller truck and a high-lift was scheduled to remove snow piled on Broadway and work on some other streets where it was accumulated in mounds, Laughlin said.

Snow removal on Pennsylvania Ave. was completed Friday afternoon.

Others were working in the rain, opening gutters and shoveling snow from catch basins to allow excess water to drain from streets, particularly in the downtown area.

Bishop Lichtenberger said "the principal thing that separates us now is the doctrine of the infallibility of the Pope. We could not recognize him as the infallible head of the church."

The bishop was here for the 146th annual convention of the Diocese of Ohio, which opened Friday at Trinity Cathedral.

ries. Tomorrow will also be windy with scattered snow flurries.

(P. S. The groundhog couldn't see his shadow this morning because of rainy skies. According to tradition, that means an early spring.)

Meanwhile, street crews continued to work today to remove snow and open gutters to allow excess water to drain away from low-lying places.

Because the city's stock of cinders is almost exhausted, four trucks, including three from the street department and an incinerator truck were being used to haul ashes from Midland, Street Supt. W. M. Laughlin said.

Despite the lack of equipment, a crew using a smaller truck and a high-lift was scheduled to remove snow piled on Broadway and work on some other streets where it was accumulated in mounds, Laughlin said.

Snow removal on Pennsylvania Ave. was completed Friday afternoon.

Others were working in the rain, opening gutters and shoveling snow from catch basins to allow excess water to drain from streets, particularly in the downtown area.

Bishop Lichtenberger said "the principal thing that separates us now is the doctrine of the infallibility of the Pope. We could not recognize him as the infallible head of the church."

The bishop was here for the 146th annual convention of the Diocese of Ohio, which opened Friday at Trinity Cathedral.

Potters Upset Salem, 58-53; Will Wellsville Be Next?

The Review Sports

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1963 E AST LIVERPOOL REVIEW PAGE 8

EAST LIVERPOOL'S Frank McComas goes high in a battle for a rebound against taller Bob King, while Salem's Bill Beery (33) stands by. The Potters upset Salem, 58-52.

Cline, McComas, Forzano Spark Brilliant Play Against Quakers

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool High's upset ship didn't sink in the fourth quarter this time, but sailed straight through to a surprising and sweet 58-53 victory over the highly-regarded Salem Quakers.

The contest, best turned in by the Potters this season, kept a near capacity crowd of some 1,300 fans buzzing from start to finish Friday night at Memorial Auditorium.

It was a great way for a Potter team, beaten nine times this season, to come out of a slump.

Last night's thriller swept memories back to two years ago when on the same floor the Potters pulled a similar upset, 71-68.

TONIGHT, the Potters flip back into the frying pan when they have another big task confronting them — the tall Wellsville Tigers.

East Liverpool will be out to avenge a 57-53 loss at Wellsville earlier in the season but will still have a great height barrier to overcome.

Another packed house is expected at Memorial Auditorium with action starting at 7 when the two reserve teams meet.

Coach Jack McDevitt's team brings an 8-3 record here.

POTTER coach Jim Harris, who had watched his team win only two games in 11 tries up until last night, was all smiles after the game and praised every one of the six players who turned in the majority of the upset action.

The first performer he singled out was junior Bob Forzano, a Potter who doesn't shoot much but knows a whale of a lot about defense.

"Forzano did a great job on Bill Beery in the fourth quarter. I don't think he got a field goal did he?" Harris questioned.

Harris was right. He had tried two other Potters in an effort to stop Beery, Salem's leading scorer, but with little success. Forzano received the assignment as the fourth period opened.

GOING into the final quarter, Beery had scored 22 points and that is what he finished with. Beery is the key to the Salem offense, once stopped the Quakers are stopped and he was held scoreless. In fact only got three shots in the final eight minutes.

Everywhere that Beery went, Forzano was with him and even stole the ball on several occasions.

East Liverpool entered the fourth quarter behind 48-47, but with Beery stopped Salem scored only five points in the final period while the Potters dropped in 11.

ALTHOUGH it was an outstanding team effort, the chief point contributors were Dean Cline and Frank McComas, who teamed up for 38.

"This was by far the best game turned in by McComas this season," Harris said. The junior letterman collected 17 points with his brilliant driving efforts, something that had been missing before, and outside shooting.

McComas, along with Ed Prentice and Cline, picked off a good share of the rebounds against the taller Quaker team.

CLINE took scoring honors for East Liverpool with 21, his best effort in the last four games. The Potter star, who entered the contest with a 21 - point average, hit on 9 of 27 shots and three of five fouls.

The third quarter, which the Potters entered trailing by three, could have seen Salem pull away, but that was when Cline and McComas were at their best.

McComas tossed in eight points for his best quarter, missing only once with four out of five, and Cline added seven. The efforts by this pair carried the Potters within one point as the period closed, 48-47.

ROGER LINVILLE added an important seven points and Tom Kraft, who replaced Linville for about half of the contest, added four.

Forzano, concentrating on defense, found time for five markers.

Dave Oliver was the only other Potter to see action and chipped in with one field goal. He came off the bench with only 45 seconds to play when Prentice fouled out.

In the Salem dressing room, Coach John Cabas, was dejected because of a similar upset pulled about this time two years ago.

CABAS was quick to say, "East Liverpool deserved the victory. They wanted it and got it."

The Salem coach pointed directly to the foul line for his team's defeat last night. "In that fourth quarter we missed the first shot on four one and one situations."

The Quakers could connect on only one of eight free throws in the fourth period, a major factor in their downfall.

FOR THREE quarters Friday night, Beery, one in a long line of Salem greats, couldn't be stopped. He ripped through the Potter defense, taking passes from his teammates and driving under for basket after basket.

The three-year veteran, who is nearing the all-time Salem scoring mark, tallied 22 points until he was stopped cold in the last quarter. Beery hit on 9 of 21 attempts.

Bob King, 6-foot-5 pivot man for the Quakers, chipped in for 11 points.

Before the game, King with his size, posed a big threat to the Potters. He did most of his damage from outside on one handers from the end of the key, but was held scoreless from the field in the fourth quarter.

DAVE CAPEL, 5-foot-9 guard, scored six points and was the only Quaker to score from the field in the fourth quarter, hitting twice.

The Quakers were far off form from the team that scored 107 points and set a school record just Tuesday night. Salem wound up with a 36 per cent shooting mark while the Potters were one better with 37. Salem took 61 shots and made 22, the Potters 64 and hit on 24.

After trailing by three at halftime, East Liverpool fell behind by as much as seven points early in the third quarter.

WITH McComas and Cline leading the way, East Liverpool tied the score at 45-45 with 46 seconds remaining in the third quarter and Salem took a 48-47 edge as the period ended.

The clock showed 5:37 left in the contest when Forzano dropped in a foul to knot the count at 50-50.

This was the last time the score was to be tied. Cline scored a bucket with 3:35 remaining to set the Potter fans crazy, then McComas hit for a foul, Linville a bucket and McComas another free throw to push ELHS in front 56-50 with only 33 seconds to go.

The loss left Salem with a 9-5 record.

Hurricane Carter To Face Brennan

NEW YORK (AP) — Rubin Hurricane Carter is a little miffed because his knockout streak was stopped by Holly Mims in December. The cocky, colorful middleweight contender expects to take it out on Gomeo Brennan tonight in their television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Carter, of Paterson, N.J., is a 3-1 choice over the 24-year-old Bimini battler.

Brennan and Carter were scheduled to mix at the Garden last Dec. 22, but a virus on fight day knocked Brennan out of the match and brought in Holly Mims as a sub. Mims, a veteran from Washington, floored Carter but could not keep him down. Carter came on to win the decision for his fourth straight victory.

Carter, 26, had swept his three previous fights by knockouts. His record now is 14-2, including 11 knockouts, in less than two years of pro fighting.

Brennan, a pro seven years, has a 52-7-5 record. He has 27 kayos to his credit and never has been stopped.

The bout will be telecast nationally ABC starting at 10 p. m. EST. Scoring will be by the rounds system.

Forzano, concentrating on defense, found time for five markers.

Dave Oliver was the only other Potter to see action and chipped in with one field goal. He came off the bench with only 45 seconds to play when Prentice fouled out.

In the Salem dressing room, Coach John Cabas, was dejected because of a similar upset pulled about this time two years ago.

CABAS was quick to say, "East Liverpool deserved the victory. They wanted it and got it."

The Salem coach pointed directly to the foul line for his team's defeat last night. "In that fourth quarter we missed the first shot on four one and one situations."

The Quakers could connect on only one of eight free throws in the fourth period, a major factor in their downfall.

FOR THREE quarters Friday night, Beery, one in a long line of Salem greats, couldn't be stopped. He ripped through the Potter defense, taking passes from his teammates and driving under for basket after basket.

The three-year veteran, who is nearing the all-time Salem scoring mark, tallied 22 points until he was stopped cold in the last quarter. Beery hit on 9 of 21 attempts.

Bob King, 6-foot-5 pivot man for the Quakers, chipped in for 11 points.

Before the game, King with his size, posed a big threat to the Potters. He did most of his damage from outside on one handers from the end of the key, but was held scoreless from the field in the fourth quarter.

DAVE CAPEL, 5-foot-9 guard, scored six points and was the only Quaker to score from the field in the fourth quarter, hitting twice.

The Quakers were far off form from the team that scored 107 points and set a school record just Tuesday night. Salem wound up with a 36 per cent shooting mark while the Potters were one better with 37. Salem took 61 shots and made 22, the Potters 64 and hit on 24.

After trailing by three at halftime, East Liverpool fell behind by as much as seven points early in the third quarter.

WITH McComas and Cline leading the way, East Liverpool tied the score at 45-45 with 46 seconds remaining in the third quarter and Salem took a 48-47 edge as the period ended.

The clock showed 5:37 left in the contest when Forzano dropped in a foul to knot the count at 50-50.

This was the last time the score was to be tied. Cline scored a bucket with 3:35 remaining to set the Potter fans crazy, then McComas hit for a foul, Linville a bucket and McComas another free throw to push ELHS in front 56-50 with only 33 seconds to go.

The loss left Salem with a 9-5 record.

Oldtimers To Play Dimes Benefit Game

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Old timers of the National and American leagues, aided by a few active players, planned to make history today.

The annual oldtimers baseball game, a seven inning contest for the benefit of the March of Dimes, was to bring together representatives of the American and National leagues. They planned to use the new, enlarged strike zone, making this the first baseball game in which it has been used.

Pitchers included Johnny Vander Mere, Bob Feller, Rip Sewell and a modern - day star, 18-game winner Jim Kaat of the Minnesota Twins.

Hurricane Carter To Face Brennan

NEW YORK (AP) — Rubin Hurricane Carter is a little miffed because his knockout streak was stopped by Holly Mims in December. The cocky, colorful middleweight contender expects to take it out on Gomeo Brennan tonight in their television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Carter, of Paterson, N.J., is a 3-1 choice over the 24-year-old Bimini battler.

Brennan and Carter were scheduled to mix at the Garden last Dec. 22, but a virus on fight day knocked Brennan out of the match and brought in Holly Mims as a sub. Mims, a veteran from Washington, floored Carter but could not keep him down. Carter came on to win the decision for his fourth straight victory.

Carter, 26, had swept his three previous fights by knockouts. His record now is 14-2, including 11 knockouts, in less than two years of pro fighting.

Brennan, a pro seven years, has a 52-7-5 record. He has 27 kayos to his credit and never has been stopped.

The bout will be telecast nationally ABC starting at 10 p. m. EST. Scoring will be by the rounds system.

Midland Swamps Hopewell, 81-32, In 8th Loop Win

Streak Now 25 In Section Play

By ANDY NUZZO

"It was a fine team effort," remarked Hank Kuzma after his Midland Leopard five had thoroughly battered the Hopewell Vikings, 81-32, before a fine turnout in the Hopewell gym Friday night.

The win was Midland's eighth straight in Section 8 play this season as the second half schedule got underway. The win also increased the Leopards sectional winning streak to 25 games.

Bill Sallis, Sim Hill, Gary Perkins and Rod Alston all tallied in double figures for Midland and outscored the entire Hopewell team, 50-32.

Sallis led all scorers with 17 points. The leading scorer in Section 8 ripped the cords for six field goals and five of eight free throws. The 6-2 senior had full control of the boards once again, pulling down 19 rebounds.

Hill, a 6-3 sophomore, meshed six field goals for 12 points. Perkins, a 5-11 senior, added five field goals and one charity toss for 11 points.

Alston poured 10 markers through the nets. The 6-1 junior played only 15 seconds of the first half and did all of his scoring in the final two periods.

Sophomore Ron Brown chipped in with three fielders and three of six from the foul line for nine points. He helped Sallis in the rebounding department with 10.

Senior Ray Hoppa and sophomore Norman Vanlier played fine floor games. They sparked the Leopard defense that intercepted many Hopewell passes. Vanlier also set up easy baskets for his teammates with his fine passing.

Frank Obermier, the second-leading scorer in the section, led Hopewell with three field goals and nine consecutive free throws for 15 points.

Midland hit a season high of 34 field goals in 74 attempts for a fine 46 per cent. The Leopard defense limited Hopewell to a mere nine field goals in 52 tries for 15 per cent.

The game was close only for the first few minutes. Vanlier put the Leopards in front to stay, 6-4, when he swished a jump shot from the corner with a little more than six minutes remaining in the initial quarter.

Midland moved out to a 19-10 lead at the end of the first period, increased it to 38-14 at the half and 56-19 at the end of three periods of play.

The Leopard jayvees broke loose for 30 points in the final quarter to rout the Hopewell reserves, 71-42. Ron Dominici paced the Midland subs with 24 points. Ted Vaughn added 13.

Nick Malobabich led Hopewell with 13 markers and Clyde Fuller added 11.

Cincinnati To Risk Streak Against St. Louis Tonight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Out of the frying pan into the fire. That's tonight's prospect for the top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats, trying for their 35th straight victory against St. Louis in the top game on the major college basketball program.

Seared by the Drake Bulldogs Thursday before they managed to win in overtime, the Bearcats of Coach Ed Jucker face a fired-up Billiken team that has high hopes of snapping winning streak of the National Collegiate champions.

"We're going after them, you can be sure of that," said John Benington, coach of the Billikens.

The game, in the Cincinnati Field House, tops a heavy Saturday program in which all but one of the top ten teams in the Associated Press poll go into action. Only Illinois, No. 4, is idle.

Second-ranked Chicago Loyola, like Cincinati unbeaten this season, goes after victory No. 20 against Iowa in the feature of a tripleheader at Chicago Stadium. Duke, No. 3, is at North Carolina and Arizona State, No. 5, entertains Texas Western.

In the other games involving the Top Ten Alabama is at Georgia Tech, No. 6; Stanford, No. 7, is at Washington State; Colorado, No. 8, is at Oklahoma; Louisiana State is at Mississippi State, No. 9; and Tulsa is at Wichita, No. 10.

Perhaps a chilling omen for Cincinnati was Stanford's surprise defeat by the Washington Huskies Friday night in the only game involving a team in the Top Ten. Washington upset the Big Six leaders 49-48 on Charlie Hart's hook shot in the last 3 seconds of play.

In other Friday games UCLA beat Southern California 77-65, Oregon took California 60-55, Oregon State defeated Seattle 66-60, Washington State whipped Idaho 66-57, Wyoming thumped Denver 87-72, San Francisco downed Portland 64-52, Colorado State U. humbled Montana State 100-83 and Yale tied Penn for the Ivy League lead by nipping Dartmouth 74-72 in overtime.

County Jr. High Cage Tourney To Open Monday

The Columbiana County Junior High School basketball tournament will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Crestview High School.

Monday's schedule pits Beaver Local against Southern Local at 6. Eighth grade squads of the two schools meet at 7.

On Tuesday, United Local meets Fairfield-Waterford, following the same pattern as of Monday.

United Boosters Will Stage Cage Event April 1-6

HANOVERTON — The United High School Booster Club announced its 8th annual Independent Basketball Tournament will be held April 1-6 at the United High School gym.

Frank G. Solak, United High principal, will again serve as tournament director.

Salineville Fails At JU, Drops 54-42 Encounter

Salineville High finished with a flourish but even so fell considerably short of overtaking Jefferson Union in absorbing a 54-42 defeat Friday night.

Coach Al Girone's inexperienced Indians found the Yellow Jackets somewhat tougher in their clash this season on the JU boards. The Jefferson Countians had squeezed out a 53-49 decision in the opening game.

The winners raced to a 16-8 first period lead and were never headed despite a 20-point burst in the fourth quarter by Salineville.

Dick Fergason, 5-11 senior, topped Salineville's 17 goal attack with 15 points, while Glen Pitts, a junior, hit seven. McGuire, 6-3 junior, chipped in with six.

Veteran Dave Marshall led the Yellow Jackets with 24 points.

Salineville bids for its second victory tonight at Chester. The Indians carry a 1-11 record against Chester (4-7).

In the preliminary, the Salineville reserves picked up a 39-32 victory.

Streak Now 25 In Section Play

By ANDY NUZZO

"It was a fine team effort," remarked Hank Kuzma after his Midland Leopard five had thoroughly battered the Hopewell Vikings, 81-32, before a fine turnout in the Hopewell gym Friday night.

The win was Midland's eighth straight in Section 8 play this season as the second half schedule got underway. The win also increased the Leopards sectional winning streak to 25 games.

Bill Sallis, Sim Hill, Gary Perkins and Rod Alston all tallied in double figures for Midland and outscored the entire Hopewell team, 50-32.

Sallis led all scorers with 17 points. The leading scorer in Section 8 ripped the cords for six field goals and five of eight free throws. The 6-2 senior had full control of the boards once again, pulling down 19 rebounds.

Hill, a 6-3 sophomore, meshed six field goals for 12 points. Perkins, a 5-11 senior, added five field goals and one charity toss for 11 points.

Alston poured 10 markers through the nets. The 6-1 junior played only 15 seconds of the first half and did all of his scoring in the final two periods.

Sophomore Ron Brown chipped in with three fielders and three of six from the foul line for nine points. He helped Sallis in the rebounding department with 10.

Senior Ray Hoppa and sophomore Norman Vanlier played fine floor games. They sparked the Leopard defense that intercepted many Hopewell passes. Vanlier also set up easy baskets for his teammates with his fine passing.

Frank Obermier, the second-leading scorer in the section, led Hopewell with three field goals and nine consecutive free throws for 15 points.

Midland hit a season high of 34 field goals in 74 attempts for a fine 46 per cent. The Leopard defense limited Hopewell to a mere nine field goals in 52 tries for 15 per cent.

The game was close only for the first few minutes. Vanlier put the Leopards in front to stay, 6-4, when he swished a jump shot from the corner with a little more than six minutes remaining in the initial quarter.

Midland moved out to a 19-10 lead at the end of the first period, increased it to 38-14 at the half and 56-19 at the end of three periods of play.

The Leopard jayvees broke loose for 30 points in the final quarter to rout the Hopewell reserves, 71-42. Ron Dominici paced the Midland subs with 24 points. Ted Vaughn added 13.

Nick Malobabich led Hopewell with 13 markers and Clyde Fuller added 11.

On Tuesday the Leopards will entertain the Beaver Bobcats, who have surged into third place in the section race.

Pennsylvanians Hand Beavers 12th Setback

Western Beaver High became a member of a not-so-exclusive fraternity Friday night but the win was still a big one as the Pennsylvanians took the measure of slumping Beaver Local, 58-53, at the new school in Beaver County.

With Pat Marron setting the pace, Western Beaver slapped the 12th defeat of the season on Coach Tom McCall's Beavers.

Both teams staked losing records to begin with, but Western Beaver emerged from the cellar of the district standings with its second victory.

The victory gives Western Beaver a 2-11 mark, compared to 11- for Beaver Local.

After a tie score at halftime, 30-30, Western Beaver edged ahead and owned a 43-39 lead after three quarters.

Marron of Western Beaver topped in 22 points to lead all scorers, while Larry Robinson tallied 13, John Kelly, nine, and Chuck Krause four. Brand chipped in with six.

Robinson tallied six points in the third quarter when Western Beaver wheeled in front. The winners managed a two-point spread in the late minutes, and began a stall to preserve the victory.

George Gaydos led Beaver Local with 16 points, while Gary Berhar and Shaw each got 11.

Western Beaver also won the reserve game, 35-30, over Beaver Local. Beaver Local returns to action tonight against high-powered Crestview.

Cincinnati To Risk Streak Against St. Louis Tonight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Out of the frying pan into the fire. That's tonight's prospect for the top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats, trying for their 35th straight victory against St. Louis in the top game on the major college basketball program.

Seared by the Drake Bulldogs Thursday before they managed to win in overtime, the Bearcats of Coach Ed Jucker face a fired-up Billiken team that has high hopes of snapping winning streak of the National Collegiate champions.

"We're going after them, you can be sure of that," said John Benington, coach of the Billikens.

The game, in the Cincinnati Field House, tops a heavy Saturday program in which all but one of the top ten teams in the Associated Press poll go into action. Only Illinois, No. 4, is idle.

Second-ranked Chicago Loyola, like Cincinati unbeaten this season, goes after victory No. 20 against Iowa in the feature of a tripleheader at Chicago Stadium. Duke, No. 3, is at North Carolina and Arizona State, No. 5, entertains Texas Western.

In the other games involving the Top Ten Alabama is at Georgia Tech, No. 6; Stanford, No. 7, is at Washington State; Colorado, No. 8, is at Oklahoma; Louisiana State is at Mississippi State, No. 9; and Tulsa is at Wichita, No. 10.

Perhaps a chilling omen for Cincinnati was Stanford's surprise defeat by the Washington Huskies Friday night in the only game involving a team in the Top Ten. Washington upset the Big Six leaders 49-48 on Charlie Hart's hook shot in the last 3 seconds of play.

In other Friday games UCLA beat Southern California 77-65, Oregon took California 60-55, Oregon State defeated Seattle 66-60, Washington State whipped Idaho 66-57, Wyoming thumped Denver 87-72, San Francisco downed Portland 64-52, Colorado State U. humbled Montana State 100-83 and Yale tied Penn for the Ivy League lead by nipping Dartmouth 74-72 in overtime.

Salineville Fails At JU, Drops 54-42 Encounter

Salineville High finished with a flourish but even so fell considerably short of overtaking Jefferson Union in absorbing a 54-42 defeat Friday night.

Coach Al Girone's inexperienced Indians found the Yellow Jackets somewhat tougher in their clash this season on the JU boards. The Jefferson Countians had squeezed out a 53-49 decision in the opening game.

The winners raced to a 16-8 first period lead and were never headed despite a 20-point burst in the fourth quarter by Salineville.

Dick Fergason, 5-11 senior, topped Salineville's 17 goal attack with 15 points, while Glen Pitts, a junior, hit seven. McGuire, 6-3 junior, chipped in with six.

Veteran Dave Marshall led the Yellow Jackets with 24 points.

Salineville bids for its second victory tonight at Chester. The Indians carry a 1-11 record against Chester (4-7).

In the preliminary, the Salineville reserves picked up a 39-32 victory.

As They Filed Aboard Plane

Gunplay Mars Departure Of Refugees From Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban-Americans fleeing Fidel Castro's Cuba witnessed one last flareup of gunplay as they filed aboard a Red Cross plane with what few possessions they were able to keep from Cuban police.

The gunfire was drawn by a handcuffed prisoner who obviously wanted to leave Cuba with them. He didn't make it.

Passengers reported after landing at Miami Friday that the handcuffed captive broke from his guards at Havana Airport and raced onto the runway area. One guard fired a burst from his submachine gun.

The slugs apparently did not wound the fugitive, who flattened himself on the ground, but sprayed the right fuel tank of a parked Russian-built Cuban Airlines plane.

Gasoline poured from the bullet holes in the tank while guards swarmed from the terminal building. Passengers said the escapee was corralled quickly and led away.

Most of the 106 Cuban-Americans and relatives were aboard the Pan American World Airways plane, which delivered a Bay of Pigs prisoner ransom installment to Castro, before the outburst of machine gun fire.

One refugee, 15-year-old Oscar Iglesias, arrived in Miami with his carefully-hoarded Cuban shoes shining like mirrors. But the soles were very thin. He had been taking good care of the shoes, he said, because they were so hard to replace in Cuba.

Rare Trial In Connecticut Involves Peonage Charges

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A rare trial in Connecticut involving charges of peonage is under way in U.S. District Court. The principals are a Mexico City cab driver and a chicken farmer.

Luis Humberto Oros, 43, arrived in Connecticut with his family in July 1961 to work on a Middlefield chicken farm owned by David I. Shackney.

A year later, Shackney was indicted by a federal grand jury on nine counts of keeping the Oros family in a state of peonage and involuntary servitude.

If convicted, he could be sentenced to up to five years in prison and fined $5,000 on each count.

The charges, believed to be the first in the state's history, have their origins in federal law that dates from March 2, 1867.

With three days of the trial completed, Oros has testified about his first meeting with Shackney in Mexico City in 1960, and of the chicken farmer's offer to provide work for Oros, his wife and their five children.

Shackney, 51, former teacher at a Hebrew school, has not yet testified in his trial, now in recess for the weekend. At the time of his indictment he expressed shock and denied the charges.

Oros claimed that he and his family were forced to work as much as 12 hours a day without pay, to eat defective eggs and other inferior food, and to live in a section of a building also used for storing eggs. He said they did not dare to leave the chicken farm because of threats by Shackney to send them back to Mexico.

Attorney In Meredith Case Faces Contribution Charge

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Award-winning civil rights attorney William L. Higgs faced prosecution today on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Police arrested the 28-year-old white Mississippi native Friday night after a runaway youth "from a Northern state" accused Higgs of unnatural sexual acts. Higgs was released on $500 bond.

Higgs, a graduate of the University of Mississippi and the Harvard Law School, was one of five attorneys handling legal matters for James H. Meredith, Negro student at Ole Miss. He also initiated the congressional campaigns for two Negroes last summer.

The arrest came only hours after Higgs filed a federal court suit seeking the admission of another Negro, Dewey Greene Jr., to the university.

If the trial is held Feb. 11 as tentatively set before Hinds County Judge Russel Moore, it would precede by one day Higgs' receipt of the 1963 Florida Lasker Civil Liberties Award at a New York banquet.

Higgs declined comment because, he said, it "would be highly prejudicial."

Officers said the 16-year-old white youth had been involved in an automobile accident in Higgs' car Jan. 29 and that Higgs said at the time the youth was using the car without consent, but that he would not prosecute.

Kerr's Estate May Be Liable To Heavy Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert S. Kerr's attorney says the late senator apparently never got around to making a new will and his estate may be liable to heavy federal and Oklahoma inheritance taxes.

William Amory Underhill, the senator's Washington attorney and longtime friend, said Friday that the only will that has turned up was made in 1939 when the Oklahoma oilman was worth much less—"possibly a half million dollars"—than when he died.

The Democratic senator's personal fortune was estimated at $35 million to $50 million when he died in a Washington hospital Jan. 1.

Underhill said he had talked with Kerr many times about making out a new will, and four or five actually were drafted to take advantage of tax-saving charitable gifts and trusts allowed by the law.

Wellsville Suspects Held For Grand Jury

Two Wellsville men were bound over to the Grand Jury Friday by County Judge James L. MaDonald for alleged burglary of a food store.

George W. Sims, 34, and John R. Reed, 32, both of 532 Buckeye Ave., will face court for breaking into the Super-Food Market, 415 Main St., last Sunday.

The two were arrested by Wellsville police after they were observed in an alley in the rear of the food market before it was burglarized.

Both are confined to the County Jail in lieu of bonds of $1,000 each.

Gunplay Mars Departure Of Refugees From Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban-Americans fleeing Fidel Castro's Cuba witnessed one last flareup of gunplay as they filed aboard a Red Cross plane with what few possessions they were able to keep from Cuban police.

The gunfire was drawn by a handcuffed prisoner who obviously wanted to leave Cuba with them. He didn't make it.

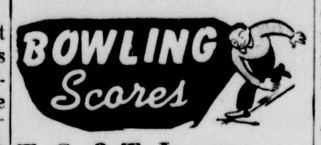

Passengers reported after landing at Miami Friday that the handcuffed captive broke from his guards at Havana Airport and raced onto the runway area. One guard fired a burst from his submachine gun.

The slugs apparently did not wound the fugitive, who flattened himself on the ground, but sprayed the right fuel tank of a parked Russian-built Cuban Airlines plane.

Gasoline poured from the bullet holes in the tank while guards swarmed from the terminal building. Passengers said the escapee was corralled quickly and led away.

Most of the 106 Cuban-Americans and relatives were aboard the Pan American World Airways plane, which delivered a Bay of Pigs prisoner ransom installment to Castro, before the outburst of machine gun fire.

One refugee, 15-year-old Oscar Iglesias, arrived in Miami with his carefully-hoarded Cuban shoes shining like mirrors. But the soles were very thin. He had been taking good care of the shoes, he said, because they were so hard to replace in Cuba.

Rare Trial In Connecticut Involves Peonage Charges

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A rare trial in Connecticut involving charges of peonage is under way in U.S. District Court. The principals are a Mexico City cab driver and a chicken farmer.

Luis Humberto Oros, 43, arrived in Connecticut with his family in July 1961 to work on a Middlefield chicken farm owned by David I. Shackney.

A year later, Shackney was indicted by a federal grand jury on nine counts of keeping the Oros family in a state of peonage and involuntary servitude.

If convicted, he could be sentenced to up to five years in prison and fined $5,000 on each count.

The charges, believed to be the first in the state's history, have their origins in federal law that dates from March 2, 1867.

With three days of the trial completed, Oros has testified about his first meeting with Shackney in Mexico City in 1960, and of the chicken farmer's offer to provide work for Oros, his wife and their five children.

Shackney, 51, former teacher at a Hebrew school, has not yet testified in his trial, now in recess for the weekend. At the time of his indictment he expressed shock and denied the charges.

Oros claimed that he and his family were forced to work as much as 12 hours a day without pay, to eat defective eggs and other inferior food, and to live in a section of a building also used for storing eggs. He said they did not dare to leave the chicken farm because of threats by Shackney to send them back to Mexico.

Attorney In Meredith Case Faces Contribution Charge

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Award-winning civil rights attorney William L. Higgs faced prosecution today on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Police arrested the 28-year-old white Mississippi native Friday night after a runaway youth "from a Northern state" accused Higgs of unnatural sexual acts. Higgs was released on $500 bond.

Higgs, a graduate of the University of Mississippi and the Harvard Law School, was one of five attorneys handling legal matters for James H. Meredith, Negro student at Ole Miss. He also initiated the congressional campaigns for two Negroes last summer.

The arrest came only hours after Higgs filed a federal court suit seeking the admission of another Negro, Dewey Greene Jr., to the university.

If the trial is held Feb. 11 as tentatively set before Hinds County Judge Russel Moore, it would precede by one day Higgs' receipt of the 1963 Florida Lasker Civil Liberties Award at a New York banquet.

Higgs declined comment because, he said, it "would be highly prejudicial."

Officers said the 16-year-old white youth had been involved in an automobile accident in Higgs' car Jan. 29 and that Higgs said at the time the youth was using the car without consent, but that he would not prosecute.

Kerr's Estate May Be Liable To Heavy Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert S. Kerr's attorney says the late senator apparently never got around to making a new will and his estate may be liable to heavy federal and Oklahoma inheritance taxes.

William Amory Underhill, the senator's Washington attorney and longtime friend, said Friday that the only will that has turned up was made in 1939 when the Oklahoma oilman was worth much less—"possibly a half million dollars"—than when he died.

The Democratic senator's personal fortune was estimated at $35 million to $50 million when he died in a Washington hospital Jan. 1.

Underhill said he had talked with Kerr many times about making out a new will, and four or five actually were drafted to take advantage of tax-saving charitable gifts and trusts allowed by the law.

Wellsville Suspects Held For Grand Jury

Two Wellsville men were bound over to the Grand Jury Friday by County Judge James L. MaDonald for alleged burglary of a food store.

George W. Sims, 34, and John R. Reed, 32, both of 532 Buckeye Ave., will face court for breaking into the Super-Food Market, 415 Main St., last Sunday.

The two were arrested by Wellsville police after they were observed in an alley in the rear of the food market before it was burglarized.

Both are confined to the County Jail in lieu of bonds of $1,000 each.

Junior Editors Quiz on LOCKS

QUESTION: How do locks work?

ANSWER: The Egyptian wooden lock (1) was used about 4000 years ago. Pins dropped from above held the wooden pieces together, then were lifted up by inserting key, when door could be opened. Long after, the Yale lock was invented which also uses pins (upper right). (A) is a cross section showing 5 pins, each in 2 unequal parts, which are pushed down by springs and go through a round "plug" locking this so it can not be turned. When key is inserted (B) shapes on key push pins up so breaks between them line up with top of plug. Now key can turn plug and twist rod which goes through door and opens latch in other side. Invented in 1865, this is the most popular lock today. In (2), Jane and Jim study a huge ancient "warded" lock, the principle of which is widely used in small locks today. It is less secure than the Yale lock. Safest of all is the combination lock which has no key opening. (3). The dial is set to a certain number, moving a disc called a "tumbler" inside. The dial is then moved to other numbers, turning other tumblers. Each tumbler has a notch. The correct "combination" lines the notches together allowing the "fence" to fall into them and release a bolt. Then the staple of the lock can be pulled out.

FOR YOU TO DO: Probably some door on your house has a Yale lock outside and a latch inside. Open the door, put the key in and turn, noticing how this opens the latch on the inside. You can't see the rod which comes through to open the latch, but this will prove that is is there.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I restore an aluminum skillet or pan which has become warped on the bottom and does not rest level on the stove?

A. Heat the pan until a drop of water dances on it. Then take it to the workshop and turn it upside down. Place a board on it and hit the board quite hard three or four times. Your pan should then be as flat as when new.

Q. How can I improvise a substitute hot water bottle?

A. Pour salt into a skillet and heat it in the oven until it's almost at the smoking point. Then pour the salt into a bag, and you'll find it will serve as well as a rubber hot water bottle.

Q. How can I treat a white garment that has been scorched while ironing it?

A. Rub the spot immediately with a cloth dipped in diluted peroxide, then run the iron over it, and it will usually be as white as ever.

Q. How can I make a good job of removing old finish from furniture when I wish to refinish it?

A. Use paint or varnish remover, obtainable at any paint store. If a tinge of old paint still remains, mix two tablespoons of oxalic acid with a quart of water, douse this mixture on the furniture with a brush, and let stay 15 minutes before rinsing with plain water. This will bleach the wood to its natural color. Warning: Be sure to protect your hands with rubber gloves and avoid splashing yourself!

Q. Is there any way I can remedy a broken coil on my hotplate?

A. Try hooking the two ends of the break together, putting a pinch of borax on the joint, and turning on the heat. The coil will usually weld itself together very nicely.

Q. How can I satisfactory mend a tear in a kid glove?

A. Buttonhole around the edge of the tear before drawing together. Then oversew the buttonhole. Your repair will be a substantial one.

City Painter Displays Works For Program Of Lions Club

Some of his drawings and paintings of East Liverpool were exhibited by Hans Hacker at the meeting of the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Virtually all of the downtown area, the works in pencil, crayon, charcoal and water color were painted during his lunch hours, Hacker said.

He said he prefers to paint at the scene rather than work at home from sketches or photographs.

Because an artist views scenes from a different perspective than most residents, painters find many beautiful scenes in a city and surrounding area with which to work.

Questioned on why he hasn't painted more beautiful locales than some of those exhibited, Hacker pointed out many of the city's older buildings have a beauty of their own. However, he differentiated between what age has done to a building and what is the result of filth.

He exhibited some paintings to show the difference a viewpoint can make.

Hacker was introduced by Dr. Fraser Jackson, program chairman.

James Johnston, president, announced the Board of Directors will meet Monday night at the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex.

Reports on the wrestling show Feb. 9 at Memorial Auditorium; the Charter Night dinner Feb. 23 at Deramo's in Midland, and the annual minstrel show March 23 at Westgate auditorium were given by the respective chairman, Christ Pallis, Donald Duke and Ed Shingler.

Historical Society Picture Illustrates S. C. Hill Article

The life of one of East Liverpool's most famous sons — Sanford Clark Hill — is the subject of feature story in the "Family Magazine" supplement of the Pittsburgh Press Sunday.

Hill's career is reviewed from birth in Pughtown in Hancock County June 20, 1796, to almost 75 years later when he died after gaining fame by providing calculations for almanacs published in Pittsburgh.

Hill settled in Wellsville as a youth of 19 and in 1817 opened the first drygoods store in East Liverpool. Subsequently, he sold this business and engaged in surveying, later becoming one of the well known mathematicians and astronomers of his time.

He provided calculations for Pittsburgh almanacs for 43 consecutive years and also was an inventor, civil engineer, justice of the peace and postmaster in East Liverpool in 1850. Hill also served as mayor of East Liverpool several terms.

He was an elder of the Longs Run Presbyterian Church. His homemade instruments, sundial scrapbooks, manuscripts of mathematics and astronomy, and other articles are in the East Liverpool Historical Society's Museum in Carnegie Library.

Historical Society Picture Illustrates S. C. Hill Article

The life of one of East Liverpool's most famous sons — Sanford Clark Hill — is the subject of feature story in the "Family Magazine" supplement of the Pittsburgh Press Sunday.

Hill's career is reviewed from birth in Pughtown in Hancock County June 20, 1796, to almost 75 years later when he died after gaining fame by providing calculations for almanacs published in Pittsburgh.

Hill settled in Wellsville as a youth of 19 and in 1817 opened the first drygoods store in East Liverpool. Subsequently, he sold this business and engaged in surveying, later becoming one of the well known mathematicians and astronomers of his time.

He provided calculations for Pittsburgh almanacs for 43 consecutive years and also was an inventor, civil engineer, justice of the peace and postmaster in East Liverpool in 1850. Hill also served as mayor of East Liverpool several terms.

He was an elder of the Longs Run Presbyterian Church. His homemade instruments, sundial scrapbooks, manuscripts of mathematics and astronomy, and other articles are in the East Liverpool Historical Society's Museum in Carnegie Library.

A portrait of the famous astronomer, owned by the historical society, is reproduced.

Thirty attended. The group also discussed further necessary work in developing Beaver Creek State Park. A committee will go to Cobus soon to contact various officials and ask to get the project started.

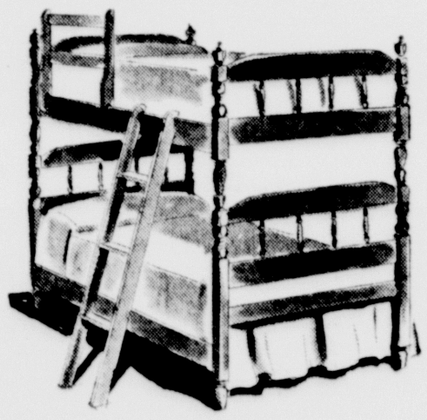

Atty. Donald Elliott of Rogers presided. Next meeting is Feb. 28.

350 District Aliens Listed

More than 350 area aliens filed address report forms at four post offices prior to the deadline Thursday night.

Midland topped the list with 199 turning in the required forms to Postmaster Angelo Cellini.

A total of 124 registered in East Liverpool, according to Postmaster Samuel W. Brown.

Thirty-five registered at the Wellsville Post Office, Postmaster E. J. Evans reported. Twenty-nine were aliens from Italy, three from England, two from Germany and one from Lebanon.

Chester Postmaster Robert Edwards and Anthony Amedeo, clerk, said their total had not been tabulated. Amedeo said about the same number signed as in 1962, but did not recall that total.

Attorney Elected As President Of Historical Group

Atty. Delmar T. O'Hara headed a slate of new officers elected by the Wellsville Historical Society at a meeting Thursday night in Carnegie Library.

He succeeds Ed Pugh as president. Clarence Bell was elected first vice president, and Mrs. Rhea Nile, second vice president. Re-elected were Miss Ruth Urie, secretary, and Miss Louella Thompson, treasurer.

The program featured a talk by Hugh Wilson of Salineville R.D., ex-Navy lieutenant, on the significant battles of the Navy in the Civil War.

Pugh announced the celebration commemorating the 100th anniversary of the famous Civil War raid of Gen. John Morgan in Columbiana County will be July 27-28. Plans call for the renowned Confederate locomotive, "The General," to appear here during the celebration.

Next meeting is Feb. 21.

IS THIS YOUR YEAR to trade in your car?

It is for one out of every nine Americans. Some general rules for deciding when to trade have been worked out by cost specialists.

IF YOUR CAR is three or four years old or has traveled 60,000 miles, it's probably time to replace it. For U.S. compacts, tentative limits are 2½ to 3½ years or 45,000 miles pending further data.

IF this is your year to trade, see us first. You will like the low cost of our Bank Auto Loan Plan.

She Loves Kids— Even "Unsuitable" Ones

By rearing five homeless waifs in addition to her own children, Anna Rose Wright lived the idea that there's always "room for one more"

By JAMES C. G. CONNIFF

"ROOM FOR ONE MORE" became, in turn, a popular book, movie, television show. But the woman whose life story was the basis for all three was a well-loved legend in our town of Upper Montclair, N.J., long before outsiders ever heard of her.

For years, my neighbor, Anna Rose Wright, has been doing more to give prospective parents-by-adoption a healthy, workable approach to that delicate relationship than any dozen "experts" put together.

Besides three children of their own, she and her chemical-engineer husband raised and put through college five little "visitors" who came for a few weeks—and stayed to join the family. These youngsters were no bargains. But as Anna Rose points out cheerfully, "Children aren't very suitable anyhow, so you may as well take the unsuitable ones and go on from there."

Those the Wrights took under their roof proved their unsuitability with gusto. Instead of retaliating or cracking down, however, Anna and Arthur Wright and their own children simply overwhelmed the unhappy rebels with love, warmth, and welcome.

Thirteen-year-old Jane, for example, was the unwanted daughter of parents who had remarried. A defiant tantrum thrower, she wouldn't lift a finger at first, or even smile. But the fun-loving Wright household proved too much for her. "Somehow I couldn't laugh as easily as the Wrights, but before I knew what was happening, I'd learned!" recalls Jane, who is now the contented mother of three children.

Another addition, Jimmy John, was even worse. A tiny, polio-stricken orphan, he used the little strength he had to kick and bite. The Wrights' answer was to pour on more of the love they had so much of. Coupled with years of surgery, it inspired Jimmy John to fight his way back to health so successfully he became an Eagle Scout.

Then there was Joey, an ill-mannered, grimy little illiterate with adenoids. Today he is a courteous, clean-cut young man. Says a close friend, "Out came Joey's adenoids and tonsils, and in went the miracle life with the Wrights." The family's friendly, rough-and-tumble ways in time had the same painlessly civilizing effect on two more rough diamonds named Paul and Albert.

ANNA ROSE is very down-to-earth about the whole thing. She warns that anyone who takes a disturbed or destitute child will find that in the beginning "they lie frantically, brag unbearably, scream nightly in wild nightmares, and wet the bed." But grownups who love them enough to hang on will see definite improvement in six months, she believes—"although it takes at least a year before a child really settles down."

During her leisure hours Anna Rose has taught swimming to children at the Y, given sailing lessons to Girl Scout Mariners, run a high-spirited Episcopal boys' choir—and written such books as "Room for One More," "Barefoot Days," and "Summer at Buckhorn."

A distinguished critic calls them "children's books you will keep and remember long after you have thrown away dozens of the shabby, arty, frightened little volumes currently being acclaimed as literature." Part of the reason is that every line Anna Rose put down on paper was tried out on volunteer audiences of neighborhood children before the publisher ever saw it.

"I felt a book ought to be able to make a child forget his supper," she says. "I wrote for this effect and read it aloud before meals to see whether it could hold them against a little hunger."

All Anna Rose's children now are grown and gone, but as other children read her immortal books, they come knocking at her door to visit with the wonderful lady who wrote them.

She welcomes them all with a smile like morning sunlight—for, in this woman's heart, there always will be room for one more.

He came to comfort the convicts; instead, he became a prisoner of mutineers who were ready to kill—and did sentences for robbery and armed assault.

The office was hardly big enough for three persons, yet for the next agonizing hours 10 of us would face life and death in this room. The prisoners' moods ranged from black rage to sympathy for our plight. Fenton was clutching my arm in a viselike grip. With his other hand, he pressed a blade of shears against my ribs.

I admit I felt fear but, strangely, not for my own safety. I kept wondering what would happen to my wife and children without me. I turned to Fenton: "If you have to cut me, I hope you will maim me rather than kill me. I have a family. They need me."

Fenton chuckled. There was no humor in it, though.

Vaughn, I noticed, had a crude knife. I believe Maher had been armed but had dropped his weapon on the platform. Now, however, he smashed a table and re-armed himself with a splintered leg.

Vaughn was starting to close the office door when I saw a guard, Albert Valley, sidle along a wall toward us. He was armed only with a billy but obviously planned to rush our captors. I watched his every move—but before he could spring, the convicts spotted him.

"Don't do anything, Valley," one shouted. "We'll knife 'em if you do."

Valley hesitated. "Get Moriarity," was the next command from the rebels. Capt. James Moriarity was well-liked by most inmates; the mutineers would try to bargain with him. Valley left reluctantly.

The room was tense and hot. There were only three chairs, so most of us stood. I called Fenton's attention to the fact that his hand was bleeding. Several of us offered handkerchiefs to bind the wound. He accepted gratefully, and for a moment, tension eased.

WHEN MORIARITY arrived, the mutineers laid down their ultimatum. They wanted a getaway car, with a police escort in front and behind. They would take some of us with them as hostages. The gates were to be opened, and the escort would take them to the main highway. There the hostages would be released.

"You know I can't do that," Moriarity protested. "Not even the warden can."

"Well, get somebody who can!" Maher screamed. He had become increasingly nervous, and I thought how lucky we were that he had lost his knife in the scuffle with Becker. He might have used it right then. He grabbed the telephone. "Give me a line to the governor," he screamed wildly.

But the telephone was dead. "You'll just have to wait," Moriarity told the desperate men. To the hostages, that sounded like a death sentence.

At one point in the long wait I asked Fenton what made a man turn to crime. "I guess a criminal mind," he replied laconically. "As for freedom—well, that's relative."

I agreed readily. "Christ is the universal freedom giver," I said. "Freedom is in the minds and souls of men. I have a father-in-law who spent months in a Communist concentration camp, and he said he was free even then."

Krake spoke up. "Christ can give you freedom even while you are in prison—true freedom such as no man or government can give. He said: 'Whomsoever the Son sets free shall be free, indeed.'"

"I tried that stuff for a while, but it didn't work," Fenton replied. Maher peered sullenly out the broken window. Vaughn remained in deep silence.

Bargaining continued but to no avail. Assistant Warden Walter Craven even laid down the most courageous of offers. "Boys," he pleaded, "let me come in there in place of those hostages. They haven't done you any harm."

They howled down the suggestion. But Craven never left his post outside the door after that, and he remained a symbol to us that we were not alone in our danger, that brave men were helping us.

BUT NOW fear began to grow in the arrogant menace of the mutineers. It was obvious that prison authorities would not bow; that they were preparing to rush the chapel. Still another thought haunted the convicts: had they murdered Becker? They would accept only the word of the Catholic chaplain, so Father Roman Brenner left the bargaining group and went to the hospital.

When he returned, his face was set in grim lines. "I am sorry," he said. "Becker is dead." Singing a hymn, Becker had been carried to the hospital; he died 30 minutes later.

We hostages exchanged quick, fearful glances. The mutineers had committed the ultimate crime, murder, and now had nothing to lose in their gamble for freedom. Our lives were insignificant now.

But Fenton's keen mind saw another possibility. He called for Richard A. McGee, director of the penal system, who had rushed to the scene. "What about Section 4500?" Fenton asked. This section of the California penal code makes death mandatory for a lifer who commits murder. Warden Robert Heinze brought the besieged men a copy of Section 4500 to study.

Our lives depended upon McGee's decision. If he promised not to prosecute under this section, the mutineers could at least escape the gas chamber; if McGee refused—well, nobody could guess. Maher crouched on the desk like a tiger at bay. Vaughn stood anxiously at the door. Fenton waited, with me at his side.

"I will recommend to the district attorney," said McGee, "that you not be prosecuted under Section 4500. But nothing more."

"Well, fellows?" Fenton said quietly. He himself reversed his shears and tapped the blade on the palm of his hand. A vote to give up! Maher hesitated. After a moment, Fenton reached out and took Vaughn's knife. Then Maher handed over his table leg. After 3½ hours, the chapel siege ended wordlessly.

Reporters asked us later if we would go back to Folsom. Certainly we will. For even in prison, men can find freedom. The only truly imprisoned men are those who have not found the freedom of Christ, and this is the freedom we can offer, the greatest of all freedoms.

He came to comfort the convicts; instead, he became a prisoner of mutineers who were ready to kill—and did sentences for robbery and armed assault.

The office was hardly big enough for three persons, yet for the next agonizing hours 10 of us would face life and death in this room. The prisoners' moods ranged from black rage to sympathy for our plight. Fenton was clutching my arm in a viselike grip. With his other hand, he pressed a blade of shears against my ribs.

I admit I felt fear but, strangely, not for my own safety. I kept wondering what would happen to my wife and children without me. I turned to Fenton: "If you have to cut me, I hope you will maim me rather than kill me. I have a family. They need me."

Fenton chuckled. There was no humor in it, though.

Vaughn, I noticed, had a crude knife. I believe Maher had been armed but had dropped his weapon on the platform. Now, however, he smashed a table and re-armed himself with a splintered leg.

Vaughn was starting to close the office door when I saw a guard, Albert Valley, sidle along a wall toward us. He was armed only with a billy but obviously planned to rush our captors. I watched his every move—but before he could spring, the convicts spotted him.

"Don't do anything, Valley," one shouted. "We'll knife 'em if you do."

Valley hesitated. "Get Moriarity," was the next command from the rebels. Capt. James Moriarity was well-liked by most inmates; the mutineers would try to bargain with him. Valley left reluctantly.

The room was tense and hot. There were only three chairs, so most of us stood. I called Fenton's attention to the fact that his hand was bleeding. Several of us offered handkerchiefs to bind the wound. He accepted gratefully, and for a moment, tension eased.

WHEN MORIARITY arrived, the mutineers laid down their ultimatum. They wanted a getaway car, with a police escort in front and behind. They would take some of us with them as hostages. The gates were to be opened, and the escort would take them to the main highway. There the hostages would be released.

"You know I can't do that," Moriarity protested. "Not even the warden can."

"Well, get somebody who can!" Maher screamed. He had become increasingly nervous, and I thought how lucky we were that he had lost his knife in the scuffle with Becker. He might have used it right then. He grabbed the telephone. "Give me a line to the governor," he screamed wildly.

But the telephone was dead. "You'll just have to wait," Moriarity told the desperate men. To the hostages, that sounded like a death sentence.

At one point in the long wait I asked Fenton what made a man turn to crime. "I guess a criminal mind," he replied laconically. "As for freedom—well, that's relative."

I agreed readily. "Christ is the universal freedom giver," I said. "Freedom is in the minds and souls of men. I have a father-in-law who spent months in a Communist concentration camp, and he said he was free even then."

Krake spoke up. "Christ can give you freedom even while you are in prison—true freedom such as no man or government can give. He said: 'Whomsoever the Son sets free shall be free, indeed.'"

"I tried that stuff for a while, but it didn't work," Fenton replied. Maher peered sullenly out the broken window. Vaughn remained in deep silence.

Bargaining continued but to no avail. Assistant Warden Walter Craven even laid down the most courageous of offers. "Boys," he pleaded, "let me come in there in place of those hostages. They haven't done you any harm."

They howled down the suggestion. But Craven never left his post outside the door after that, and he remained a symbol to us that we were not alone in our danger, that brave men were helping us.

BUT NOW fear began to grow in the arrogant menace of the mutineers. It was obvious that prison authorities would not bow; that they were preparing to rush the chapel. A MINISTER'S STORY:

I Was a Prison Hostage

By the Rev. FRANK MAPES
as told to Dick Pollard

SEVEN GRATING WORDS broke the reverent silence in the chapel of California's Folsom Prison near Sacramento:

"All right, you guys, get over there!"

We had just finished a hymn. There had been a moment of silence as our song leader, Joe Krake, thumbed through his book looking for the next hymn, "He Lives." Then those terrifying words! Three men leaped from their seats and ran down the aisle shouting, "Let's go!"

I thought: could this really be happening? Was it possible that a service to God was being used for a prison break and that we, who had come to comfort imprisoned men, were to be hostages of a few desperate convicts?

As minister of education in the Assemblies of God at Sacramento's Bethel Temple, I had gladly accepted an invitation to hold services at Folsom that eventful Sunday, Nov. 26. With me were 16 members of Bethel's Extension Department who visit people in institutions.

We all stood on the platform in shocked surprise, watching the three lawless prisoners advance. "Get over there," one shouted at us, indicating the left side of the stage. The blue-denimed prisoners in the congregation seemed like statues—except one.

"Come on, you guys. Help me stop them!" he shouted. Later I learned this was Conrad Becker, 41, serving a life sentence for armed robberies. Despite his record, he was known as a "religious" man, and evidently he was incensed by the blasphemy he was witnessing.

"Don't let them do this!" Becker yelled. He lunged at the men as they came up the platform steps. They grappled and fell in a tangle of bodies. A knife flashed, and Becker was stabbed in his side. The convicts started toward us again—but Becker was determined.

Painfully, he rose to his feet and attacked the rebels again. They fought amid grunts and cries, a swirling mass of deadly anger. The knife flashed again. Becker stumbled. How vividly I can see him! He had lost his shoe in the struggle and now, with life draining out of him, he groped for it dazedly, then staggered toward the chapel door and collapsed outside.

"Over here," one of the mutineers said. "Move fast!" He held a crude knife in his hand and was trying to isolate a few of us from the rest of the Bethel group. Most of the congregation was hurrying out the chapel's front door. I had an idea: I would pretend I hadn't heard him and try to join the others escaping.

"No!" one of the mutineers yelled at me. "We want you, too." He grabbed me and gave me a push toward the chaplain's office. The convicts broke a window to unlock the door and herded seven of us inside. I recognized my fellow hostages as the Rev. Heath Lowry, part-time chaplain at Folsom; Naaman Hall, Sunday-school superintendent; Howard Hooker, a teacher; and members Frank Dotson, Herschel Dean, and Joe Krake.

The Truth About Fortunetellers

By MARYA SAUNDERS

I'M FASCINATED by fortunetellers—in fact, most women are.

As a result, fortunetelling is a $100,000,000-a-year business in the United States. In my city alone, there are such diverse practitioners as a psychometrist who locates lost objects, a medium who locates dead relatives, and a woman who reads feet.

"But do people really believe in fortunetellers?" I have asked friends. "Can occult powers actually shape our lives or tell us who we are?" At some time or other, we have all been told about seers with unaccountable knowledge of one's past and amazing predictions about one's future which have come true. These stories of "marvelous" fortunetellers have been repeated so often and so convincingly that FAMILY WEEKLY assigned me the job of trying to find out the truth.

I arranged to visit a series of well-known fortunetellers as a typical customer. The only difference would be a small tape recorder hidden in my purse which would preserve an irrefutable transcript of each encounter.

A celebrated palmist was first on my list. "Shake hands with me, my dear. I can tell a lot from your handshake," she said after we met and sat down at a small table in an exclusive restaurant. "Are you in your twenties?" I nodded yes. My mouth was dry with nervousness; I was afraid she would discover the recorder.

"Now relax, my dear, and put your big purse on this chair. Your fate is in your hand, you know, and you have nothing to worry about," she said soothingly. She turned my palms up and examined the lines under the green glow of her flashlight. "I see you are a mature, realistic young lady and sensible and kind to people. Are you married, dear?" I shook my head no.

"Well, you will be. And you'll make a good wife and mother." She explained that the lines on my left hand showed my possibilities at birth, while my right hand showed what I had done with my life. Apparently, my right hand was filled with good things. "You are quiet and efficient," she told me. "You'd make a fine nurse. Do you have a job, dear?" I answered no.

Swiftly, she considered this reply and switched to a new line of predictions. "You know, you're quite an artistic young lady—creative and versatile. You would do well in some branch of the applied arts." I tried to kick the chair holding my purse closer to her. She was saying so many things, and I wasn't sure the tape recorder would pick it all up.

"May I take notes?" I asked.

"No. You can remember the high points."

Here was the key to her success, I decided later when I played back the tape of our conversation. Most customers would remember the adjectives that appealed to them and forget the inconsistencies in the prognostication. I was fun-loving but reserved, an idealist but practical, I got discouraged but not too discouraged. Her encouraging words added up to a lovable character for every client. It was a "marvelous" formula. I left the restaurant glowing happily.

A Graphologist Sounds Off

Still glowing the next morning, I opened my mail and read, "Dear Miss Saunders: You are rebellious, emotionally undisciplined, and unrealistic about yourself and life." The stinging words were part of the answer to a letter I'd written to a world-famous graphologist. Graphology is the study of handwriting and claims to see your character in the way you dot an "i" or cross a "t."

"You are basically not suited for wifehood or motherhood," continued her analysis. "You are irritable and resentful, and you don't like people." When I finished the letter, I felt stunned. The graphologist was a widely acclaimed teacher. Could this really be me? Had the palmist been so wrong?

For the rest of the day, I brooded over my faults. Only late in the evening did a friend finally convince me that I wasn't really such a terrible person. "Look," he said, "the graphologist may have been in a bad mood the day she wrote this. She probably only saw the dark side of your handwriting. Why don't you write her again, sign a different name, and compare the results?"

"Well, perhaps it's rationalizing," I said, "but maybe you're right. Perhaps she was tired and needed a vacation. I'll write a second letter."

My next stop on the soothsaying circuit was a visit with a reputedly "brilliant" numerologist. A small, sprightly lady with frizzy red hair, she asked my birth date, counted the letters in my name, and began to scribble down numbers. It took her several minutes of adding and subtracting to find my life pattern. Finally, she looked up, pleased.

"Your ego number is six, a feminine number," she announced. "Your emotional genie is number five, and your lower mind or sixth sense has great uniting power able to reduce discord to harmony."

For three hours, she talked while I stared in mystification. Some of the more comprehensible things she told me were that I would have six children and that I gave people six chances. At one point she said gently, "I usually don't give the bad news until the end. But you must be careful. Your present name attracts fly-by-night people. It would be better if you added a middle name or at least an initial. 'S' might do."

She then gave me a chart containing my life pattern and a handful of mimeographed daily lessons which, when followed scrupulously, would assure me a happy life. I could feel her genuine concern for me. She was worried, for example, about my groping blindly in the universe. I was so young and had so little time in the past to

Homemade Decals

By Garna Silke

Have a pile of comic cartoons on hand, plus several sheets of blank paper, a piece of white candle, and a spoon for each player. Players sit at the table, choose their cartoon, rub the candle over the blank paper, then press the cartoon on this paper with the back of the spoon. Each player can take his decals home.

The Unmovable Penny

By Betty Kahn

Place three pennies in a row. Then say, "Want to see me move the penny-in-the-middle from its place in the center without even touching it?"

This is the way to do this. Just move the penny on the end to the opposite side. See? The penny-in-the-middle will now be a penny-on-the-end. And you never touched that one!

Kangaroo Jump—A Game for Boys

Hold a ball or a balloon between your knees. Hold it tight. Now jump your way to the other side of the room and back, still holding the balloon in place. If the balloon falls, replace it between your knees and continue your trip. Two players can play at once; first kangaroo to get back to the starting line wins the jump!

learn, she explained. This was only my eighth reincarnation.

Next, I visited a reader of the Tarot. These are ornate cards which scholars have traced back to the Middle Ages. The reader spread them dramatically on the table and announced, "You are going on a trip."

"Oh," I answered, "I just came back from one."

"Then you'll probably go away for a weekend."

"That's strange. I rarely leave the city on weekends because of the crowds."

"It could be a spiritual journey, you know, dearie," she snapped indignantly.

A Tea-Leaf Reader Is Suspicious

Then I tried a local gypsy tea-leaf reader, but she hinted sullenly I might be with the police and refused to talk to me. A friend told me afterward that tea-leaf reading and other kinds of prognostication are illegal in most states and that our city's police recently had launched a campaign to clean out the fortunetellers.

Perhaps all the "marvelous" fortunetellers have been caught, I thought. Perhaps it just was not in the stars for me to find a good one. But what about the stars? They aren't illegal. Astrologers, as well as graphologists, are listed in most phone books. A lawyer explained to me that no high court has disproved the astrologers' basic contention that human character and actions are predetermined by the position of the stars and planets at the exact minute of birth.

I chose a famous astrologer with a large clientele of theatrical celebrities, businessmen, and government officials and had to wait five weeks for an appointment. When I finally entered his plush office, he had just finished my horoscope.

"Now, March 29," he began, addressing me by my birthday, "you have charm of manner which, with that Mars and Pluto behind you, could open any door if you just use it and don't get impatient. You're restless and you have great vitality, but you lose interest if things don't move fast enough. You are also an executive who would have to work where you'd be under direction. And, March 29, you were raised an only child."

Why that's me, I thought in amazement. He sounded as if he had known me for years.

He started quickly listing events of my past. "When you were a little girl, did your parents move? You were five, six, seven? Let me go to when you were 11 or 12. Did you feel the responsibility of school? Then you made your first break at 18. You were in love in '57 or '58. No, it was '56, '57. Then again in '59. You were only in love with love in '61."

With hypnotic intensity, dates and events poured from him in a flood of words. Once, I stopped him in confusion. He grumbled, "These are infallible rules of astrology, March 29. If it doesn't come to you, you must not take time to think back now. You'll remember later."

Another deluge of dates and suddenly he slowed down. "Before we go any further," he said, "I forgot to tell you. You should be connected with publishing. And yet, you're not a writer like most —unless you have a tape recorder."

Had the Astrologer Guessed?

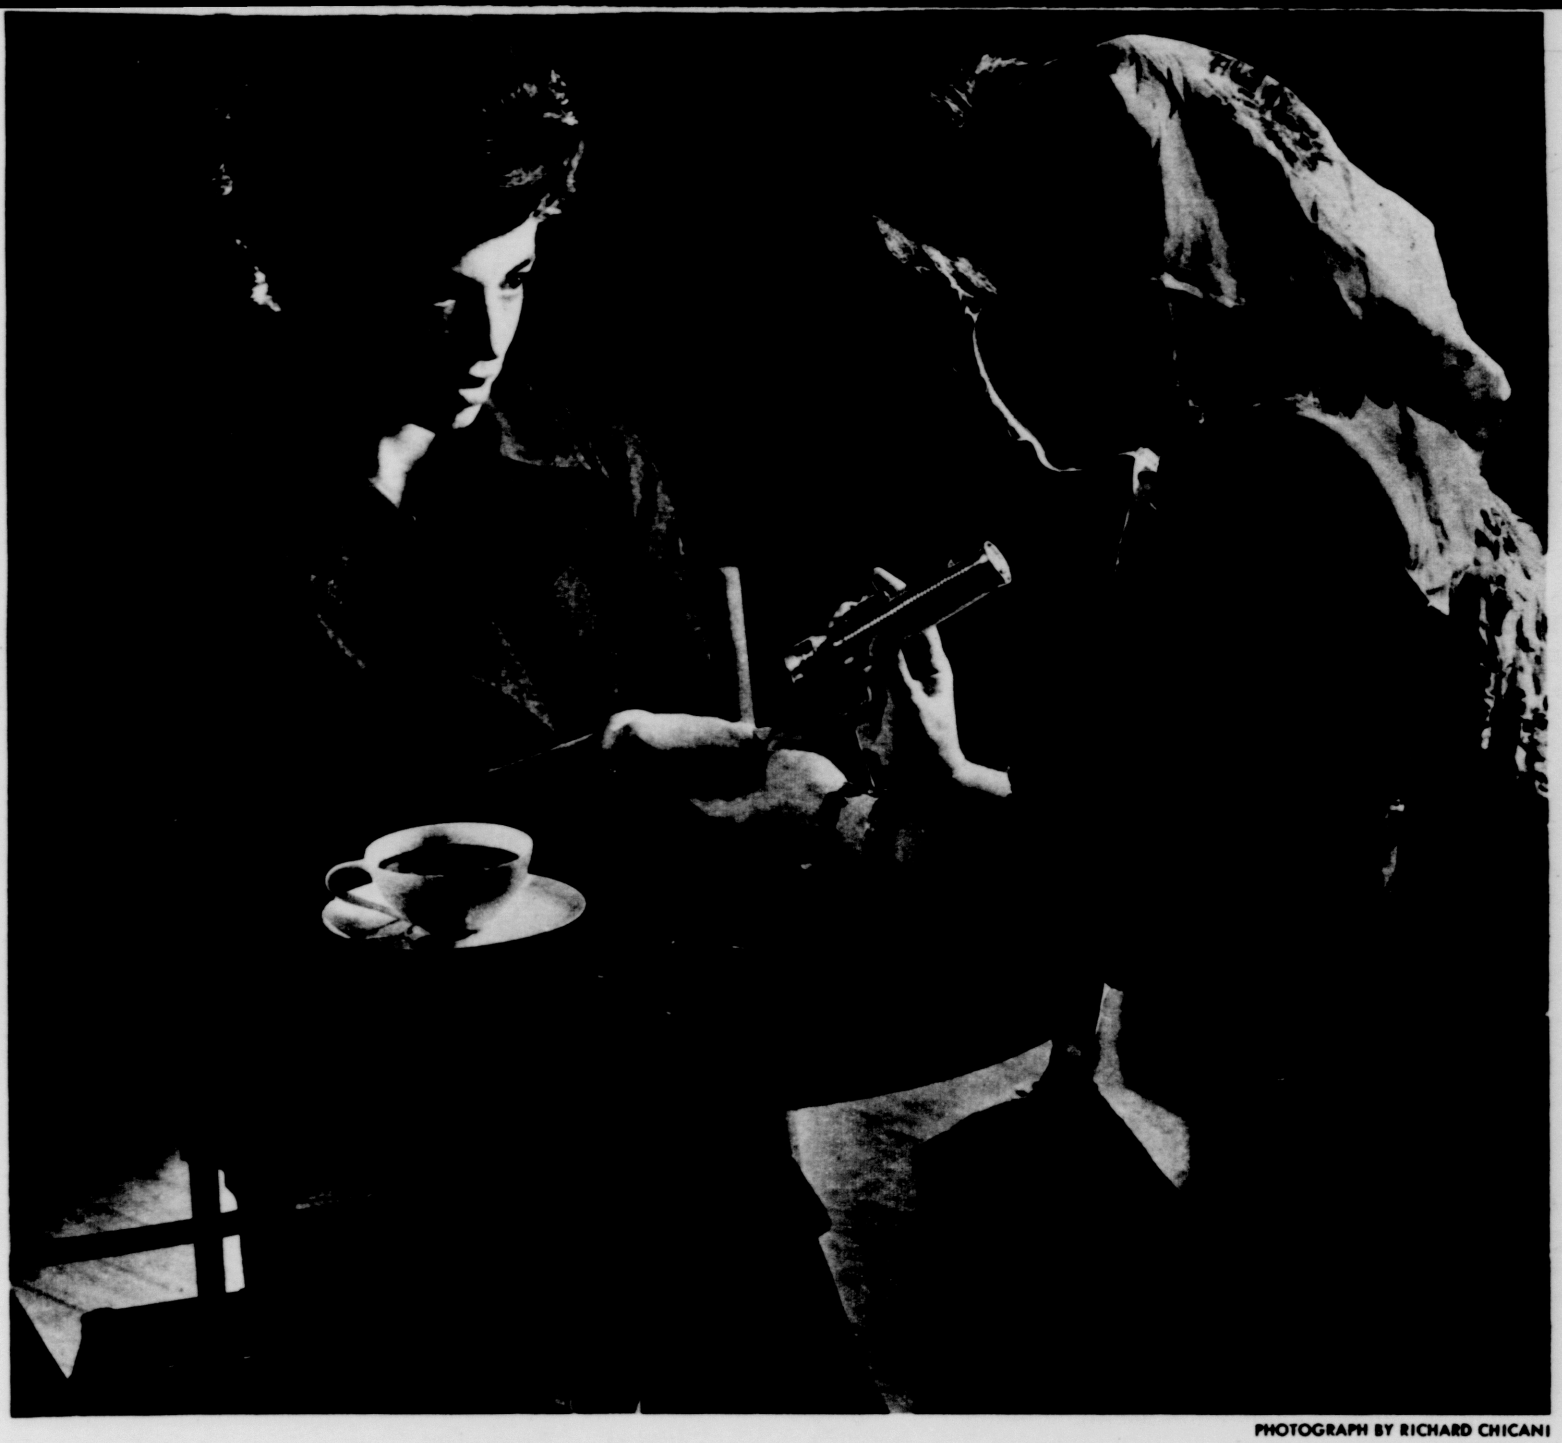

I felt the hair on the back of my neck tingle, and I gripped the purse containing my tiny recorder. He might have guessed I was a writer because an editor had referred me to him. But how could he know about the recorder?

The astrologer blithely followed this statement with another surprise. "Ever had any trouble with your back or knees?"

I gasped. Years ago, I had been a ballet dancer and had seriously injured both knees.

He then advised me to leave town immediately and move to the Southwest. He predicted that I would marry an advertising executive this year and that he would have blue-gray eyes and stomach trouble. He also predicted a second mar-

Any young man who's working his own way through college these days probably isn't married.

—Franklin P. Jones

It was the worst night of the winter. Wind whipped the snow with biting fury, drifts piled up at corners, and sidewalks became treacherous with ice. Through the blizzard a little man, head down, inched his way to the neighborhood bakery. He pulled open the door against the lash of wind and stepped inside, exhausted.

"Two sweet rolls," he panted.

"You came out in this weather just for two sweet rolls?" the baker asked incredulously. The man nodded.

"Tell me," the baker inquired, "are you married?"

The little man snapped back his answer: "You don't think my mother would send me out on a night like this, do you?"

A vain, well-to-do member of the bridge club showed up at the weekly meeting with a new hairdo piled high atop her head. "It's beautiful," said one of the more timid ladies in the club. "It almost looks like a wig."

The aristocratic woman drew herself up in annoyance. "It is a wig," she said coldly.

"Well, my goodness," soothed the little lady, "I would never have guessed it!" —Wilfred Beaver

As Dad wended his way wearily toward the front door after a hard day's work, his young son jumped out of the bushes, shouting: "Up with your hands, pardner. I got you covered with this here six-gun, so don't draw."

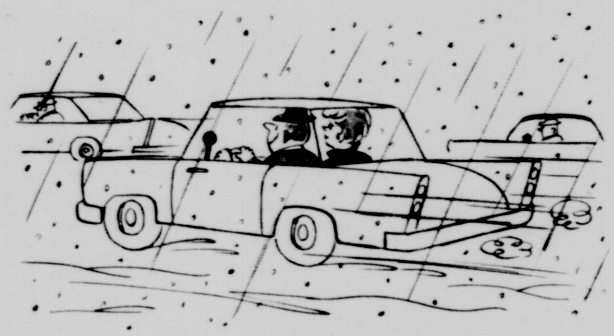

"Wait a minute, son," said the father, eyeing the space helmet, rocket gun, and astronaut wings that the boy was sporting. "You're talking Western, not space age."

His son was puzzled only a moment. Then he said: "Pardner, I'm from West Mars!" —Jan Struckmeyer

riage, this time to a journalist or lawyer. "This may sound like fortunetelling, but it isn't. It's a science," he assured me.

I have pages more from the transcript, and as I look through them, I am amazed and confused. Was he a fraud? He may not have been too good on his dates, but his analysis of my character and medical history was remarkably accurate. And what about the tape machine? Did he know he was being recorded? I don't believe so—when I left, he shook my hand enthusiastically—yet I can't be sure.

My final soothsayer was a famous clairvoyant. She was recommended by a shirt manufacturer who confers with her on important business decisions. Clairvoyants claim to sense vibrations about your past and future by looking at you, and this particular one was supposed to be so sensitive that Dr. Joseph Rhine, the renowned parapsychologist from Duke University, had conducted tests with her.

No Foolin' the Psychic

"She's psychic," my friend warned. "She'll know about the recorder the minute she looks at you." As I waited in her study, I was secretly hoping she would have such genuine occult powers, and yet I was fearful of being discovered.

"Well, darling," the clairvoyant said as she entered, "you're a fidgety little thing. How old are you?"

"Oh, I thought you'd know."

She scowled at me but proceeded in a businesslike tone. "I see an 'F' and a 'B' around you, and—who's Hal?"

"I beg your pardon?"

"I get an 'H.' Sounds like Hal." I started to search my memory for a Hal, but she stopped me. "Never mind, never mind. You're going to meet him shortly." As she rapidly threw more initials at me, I reached into my purse to make sure the tape was running. "Are you never going to get everything out of that purse you want?" she said. I froze. But, a minute later, she was "in a trance" and announcing dreamily: "You will make a change in your living. I get a move around you."

"From my apartment?" I asked.

"Yes, or someone who lives with you will change."

"I live alone."

"Well, it could mean your apartment will be painted," she said, opening her eyes irritably. "That would be a change."

She then saw me in a room with a piano and a great career in music (I can't even carry a tune). With her hand on her forehead, she complained, "You're blocking me." She leaned across the table. "You know, darling, I don't live in your material world. You live in doubts, while I have everything. You haven't found yourself, and I can make you into anything you want to be," she continued.

"I want to believe in your psychic powers," I said, "but . . ."

She slammed her fist on the desk. "Why, you sassy little piece of humanity. I don't have to prove myself to you. I work all over the world for millions. You're going to listen to me and learn something if I have to spank you."

I was angry, too, as I paid the woman her fee of $15 for insulting me. And yet it had been an instructive experience. The technique of the fortuneteller was becoming familiar, and this clairvoyant had used every trick. Ask more questions than you answer. Intimidate, then praise; warn, then console. Flood the customer with prognostication—sooner or later you will hit the truth. If questioned, justify your prediction indignantly, even if you must use spirits to back it up.

The pattern was clear, but at the same time I could see why so many people go to fortunetellers. Few of us ever feel completely satisfied with our lives, and we all have fears about the future. A successful soothsayer can calm our anxiety by offering "knowledge" of what is to come and by promising love, prosperity, and self-expression. Once we believe this is to be our "marvelous" future, we often have a way of making it come true.

Among the fortunetellers I visited, there were enough inconsistencies in the predictions (my age ranged from 19 to 30, children from 0 to 6) that I ended up feeling they were mostly amusing, diverting charlatans. But some, like the astrologer, seemed extraordinarily skillful at "sensing" things about people. Many scientists accept the idea that certain individuals have psychic or intuitive powers of perception which far exceed the realm of chance. Can they predict the future? Who really knows?

That Graphologist Again

When I returned home from the clairvoyant, a second letter from the graphologist was waiting. Eagerly, I compared it with the first character analysis. She obviously had seen a similar character in both of my letters, regardless of the name I'd signed, and yet the tone of the second was more hopeful. She described me as skeptical, not distrustful. Instead of being rebellious, I merely needed action; instead of being undisciplined, I was headstrong.

Penned across the top of the page was a note which read: "Sorry I've taken so long to answer. I was ill and tired recently, and have just come back from a vacation."

Suddenly, I felt like laughing. This was exactly what I had said before writing the second letter. I had predicted her vacation. I wondered: am I psychic?

Hugh Man on the

While raising a family and a fund

The tune is Near Eastern with daughter Deirdre on recorder.

AT 4:45 EACH WEEKDAY MORNING, two shrill alarm clocks (one electric, one mechanical) awaken television host Hugh Downs for work. About 8:30 in the evening he responds to the insistent tone in his 13-year-old daughter's voice:

"Doctor Kildare's coming on—time for you to go to bed, Daddy."

For 20 years Hugh Downs has been at the mercy of predawn alarm clocks and early evening orders to go to bed, and now, as a first-rank tv star with two popular shows, nothing has changed—including Downs' calm approach to the whole business.

Part of the calmness is inherent; part is acquired by the frustrations of a career which has had its darker moments; but most comes from a family which adjusts good-naturedly to Dad's topsy-turvy schedule.

Downs recalls, for example, when he and his wife, the former Ruth Shaheen, were married in Chicago 18 years ago. "We bought a home in suburban Wilmette," Hugh says. "My schedule was so busy then that I saw it only at night the first few weeks. Finally, I got a day off, woke late, and peered out the window in brilliant daylight—what a shock!

" 'Ruth,' I yelled, 'somebody has put a white fence around our whole lot. Don't the neighbors like us?'

"Ruth calmed me down right away. 'That's our fence,' she said. 'It came with the house. Come on, since you're paying for the house, I'll introduce you to it.' "

riage, this time to a journalist or lawyer. "This may sound like fortunetelling, but it isn't. It's a science," he assured me.

I have pages more from the transcript, and as I look through them, I am amazed and confused. Was he a fraud? He may not have been too good on his dates, but his analysis of my character and medical history was remarkably accurate. And what about the tape machine? Did he know he was being recorded? I don't believe so—when I left, he shook my hand enthusiastically—yet I can't be sure.

My final soothsayer was a famous clairvoyant. She was recommended by a shirt manufacturer who confers with her on important business decisions. Clairvoyants claim to sense vibrations about your past and future by looking at you, and this particular one was supposed to be so sensitive that Dr. Joseph Rhine, the renowned parapsychologist from Duke University, had conducted tests with her.

No Foolin' the Psychic

"She's psychic," my friend warned. "She'll know about the recorder the minute she looks at you." As I waited in her study, I was secretly hoping she would have such genuine occult powers, and yet I was fearful of being discovered.

"Well, darling," the clairvoyant said as she entered, "you're a fidgety little thing. How old are you?"

"Oh, I thought you'd know."

She scowled at me but proceeded in a businesslike tone. "I see an 'F' and a 'B' around you, and—who's Hal?"

"I beg your pardon?"

"I get an 'H.' Sounds like Hal." I started to search my memory for a Hal, but she stopped me. "Never mind, never mind. You're going to meet him shortly." As she rapidly threw more initials at me, I reached into my purse to make sure the tape was running. "Are you never going to get everything out of that purse you want?" she said. I froze. But, a minute later, she was "in a trance" and announcing dreamily: "You will make a change in your living. I get a move around you."

"From my apartment?" I asked.

"Yes, or someone who lives with you will change."

"I live alone."

"Well, it could mean your apartment will be painted," she said, opening her eyes irritably. "That would be a change."

She then saw me in a room with a piano and a great career in music (I can't even carry a tune). With her hand on her forehead, she complained, "You're blocking me." She leaned across the table. "You know, darling, I don't live in your material world. You live in doubts, while I have everything. You haven't found yourself, and I can make you into anything you want to be," she continued.

"I want to believe in your psychic powers," I said, "but . . ."

She slammed her fist on the desk. "Why, you sassy little piece of humanity. I don't have to prove myself to you. I work all over the world for millions. You're going to listen to me and learn something if I have to spank you."

I was angry, too, as I paid the woman her fee of $15 for insulting me. And yet it had been an instructive experience. The technique of the fortuneteller was becoming familiar, and this clairvoyant had used every trick. Ask more questions than you answer. Intimidate, then praise; warn, then console. Flood the customer with prognostication—sooner or later you will hit the truth. If questioned, justify your prediction indignantly, even if you must use spirits to back it up.

The pattern was clear, but at the same time I could see why so many people go to fortunetellers. Few of us ever feel completely satisfied with our lives, and we all have fears about the future. A successful soothsayer can calm our anxiety by offering "knowledge" of what is to come and by promising love, prosperity, and self-expression. Once we believe this is to be our "marvelous" future, we often have a way of making it come true.

Among the fortunetellers I visited, there were enough inconsistencies in the predictions (my age ranged from 19 to 30, children from 0 to 6) that I ended up feeling they were mostly amusing, diverting charlatans. But some, like the astrologer, seemed extraordinarily skillful at "sensing" things about people. Many scientists accept the idea that certain individuals have psychic or intuitive powers of perception which far exceed the realm of chance. Can they predict the future? Who really knows?

That Graphologist Again

When I returned home from the clairvoyant, a second letter from the graphologist was waiting. Eagerly, I compared it with the first character analysis. She obviously had seen a similar character in both of my letters, regardless of the name I'd signed, and yet the tone of the second was more hopeful. She described me as skeptical, not distrustful. Instead of being rebellious, I merely needed action; instead of being undisciplined, I was headstrong.

Penned across the top of the page was a note which read: "Sorry I've taken so long to answer. I was ill and tired recently, and have just come back from a vacation."

Suddenly, I felt like laughing. This was exactly what I had said before writing the second letter. I had predicted her vacation. I wondered: am I psychic?

Downs:

Go—But Not in a Hurry

of knowledge, he has steadily climbed to tv stardom By JACK RYAN son H. R. on drum, Hugh on piano, and Ruth the listener.

and grabbed a top announcing spot with NBC in Chicago. But other announcers subsequently were discharged who had more seniority with the network, and Downs found himself being squeezed into unemployment.

Ruth had been a successful radio director, but she now was expecting a baby. She had no intention of resuming her career, her Lebanese traditions insisting on a full-time role of mother. Hugh reluctantly decided to give up on Chicago, a proving ground for future stars, and take a step backward by going to a smaller city. "Why don't you hang on here just a while longer?" Ruth suggested one night. "Let's not act hastily; maybe something will come up."

Hugh hung on—and on and on until NBC found him indispensable. He spent 13 years in Chicago (notably with "Kukla, Fran, and Ollie"), then came to New York for a series of popular shows. Hugh has many characteristics—he's an omnivorous reader, tinker, hobbyist, writer, composer—but his friends inevitably emphasize this ability to "hang on."

PERSISTENCE paid off not only in Chicago but also in New York during those roller-coaster years with Jack Paar. Not everybody could have taken five years of being alternately father confessor and foil to the mercurial star, yet Downs did so with calmness and dignity. In the process, he built up a following of his own, which helped land him the "Today" show and the quiz program, "Concentration."

Nowadays, the Downs' household occupies an eight-room apartment furnished in French provincial and facing Central Park. Downs' son H. R. (Hugh Raymond) is 17 and a sports-car fanatic. "I have a secretary named Ferrari," Downs says, "and every time H. R. hears the name his ears stiffen. He has saved up $600 for a sports car from money he has earned, and I wish he had more. I want one myself, you see, but if I bought one, H. R. would stop working for his own, and all the worthwhile fun of it would be gone."

Daughter Deirdre is passing through the teen-age phase of mothering Dad, especially since Mrs. Downs, feeling her youngsters are grown enough now, has returned to her career as president of the family's three-year-old company, Ralin, which makes industrial films.

"Ruth gets the kids off to school and goes to work late," Downs says. "I'm home early enough in the afternoon now to spend more time with them than ever before. I used to worry about my job not allowing me to spend enough time with them, but over the years I learned that the quality of time spent is more important than the quantity. We always have been a family with a great deal of curiosity, and we spend what time we have exploring new things together. That seems better than spending a lot of time together without a purpose.

"Nowadays, of course, I don't get to help with things like homework—education speeds kids along so fast these days. H. R. already is teaching me about things—physiology, for example." Downs pauses, obviously disturbed that there is an area of learning he is deficient in. "I'm going to study that, but now I'm deep in astrology."

DOWNS' intellectual curiosity isn't just an on-camera gimmick. Sometimes, his life appears keyed to various facts, figures, and footnotes. If he mentions that he and his wife are flying to Washington on separate planes, he doesn't pass it off just as "safety"; instead, he explains the decision in actuarial terms, carefully balancing risk against probability. "This year," he says, in concluding the lecture, "H. R. will be 18, man enough to care for Deirdre, so Ruth and I will fly together."

He tells about the long summer weekends his family enjoys on a yacht and adds: "We charter the yacht. You see, if you can use a boat a certain number of days a year —say 120—it pays to buy one. But if you can't, it's better to charter. We figure we could use it only half the necessary days, so we charter."

Downs watches his weight carefully. It can fluctuate 20 pounds under certain situations: "I gain mostly when I work too hard." He walks about five miles a day to keep trim, but what worries Ruth is his tendency to overwork.

"Once, when the schedule got very heavy," Downs says, "I went to the doctor for a checkup. 'Tell me,' he said, 'do you like what you're doing and the people you work with?' I answered that I certainly did. 'Then don't worry about working too hard,' the doctor told me. 'Come back and see me when you have half the schedule—but are doing something you don't like.' "

It isn't likely Downs will be back for that reason. He likes many things and most people, and now, with H. R. and Deirdre growing up, he is looking forward to sharing more of his career activities with Ruth.

Success has not been an overnight thing for Hugh Downs, but as he has pointed out: "Slow ones seem to stick around longer and enjoy it more."

If he mentions that he and his wife are flying to Washington on separate planes, he doesn't pass it off just as "safety"; instead, he explains the decision in actuarial terms, carefully balancing risk against probability. "This year," he says, in concluding the lecture, "H. R. will be 18, man enough to care for Deirdre, so Ruth and I will fly together."

He tells about the long summer weekends his family enjoys on a yacht and adds: "We charter the yacht. You see, if you can use a boat a certain number of days a year —say 120—it pays to buy one. But if you can't, it's better to charter. We figure we could use it only half the necessary days, so we charter."

Downs watches his weight carefully. It can fluctuate 20 pounds under certain situations: "I gain mostly when I work too hard." He walks about five miles a day to keep trim, but what worries Ruth is his tendency to overwork.

"Once, when the schedule got very heavy," Downs says, "I went to the doctor for a checkup. 'Tell me,' he said, 'do you like what you're doing and the people you work with?' I answered that I certainly did. 'Then don't worry about working too hard,' the doctor told me. 'Come back and see me when you have half the schedule—but are doing something you don't like.' "

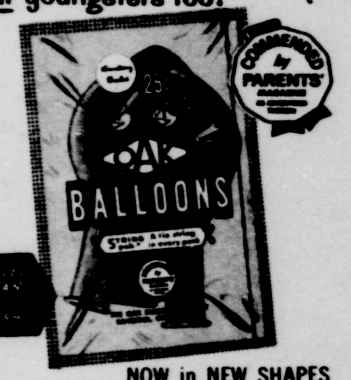

It isn't likely Downs will be back for that reason. He likes many things and most people, and now, with H. R. and Deirdre growing up, he is looking forward to sharing more of his career activities with Ruth.

Success has not been an overnight thing for Hugh Downs, but as he has pointed out: "Slow ones seem to stick around longer and enjoy it more."

Lemon-Buttered Vegetables

1 medium-sized head cauliflower
1 9-oz. pkg. frozen cut green beans
1 9-oz. pkg. frozen cut wax beans
¾ cup butter
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
½ to ¾ cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese

1. Cook cauliflower, uncovered, in a large amount of boiling salted water about 15 min., or until tender but still firm. Drain.

2. Cook beans according to package directions; drain.

3. Meanwhile, heat butter in a skillet until lightly browned. Blend in next three ingredients. Remove from heat.

4. Place cauliflower on a serving plate. Pour about two-thirds of the hot butter mixture over the head of cauliflower, separating the flowerets as much as possible to allow butter to penetrate into head. Immediately top with the cheese.

5. Toss beans with remaining butter and arrange around the cauliflower on the plate. Serve immediately.

About 8 servings

Custard-Filled Torte

1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1¾ cups sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3 cups sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups milk
Pastry Cream Filling (see recipe)
Butter Frosting (see recipe)
Raspberry jelly (about 2 tablespoons)

2. Cream the butter, lemon peel, and extract together; add sugar gradually, beating well after each addition.

3. Add eggs in halves, beating well after each addition.

4. Blend the flour, baking powder, and salt together. Alternately add dry ingredients in fourths and milk in thirds, mixing until blended after each addition. Turn batter into the pan and spread evenly into corners.

5. Bake at 350°F for 55 to 60 min., or until a cake tester inserted in center of cake comes out clean. Cool 10 min. on cooling rack. Remove cake from pan, peel off waxed paper, and cool cake completely on rack.

6. Split cake evenly into four layers. Fill with Pastry Cream Filling.

7. Frost sides and top of cake with Butter Frosting. To decorate top, heat jelly in a saucepan until melted. Allow to cool slightly. Pipe jelly through a No. 4 decorating tube in parallel lines diagonally across the top of the cake. Then with a wooden pick draw through these lines at right angles. (See photo.)

Sacher Torte

There are many recipes claiming to be the "original" Sacher Torte of Viennese fame. This is one of our favorites.

8 sq. (8 oz.) semisweet chocolate, melted
1 cup butter
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
⅔ cup (about 8) egg yolks, well beaten
⅔ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 cup (about 8) egg whites
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar

1. Grease bottom of a 9-in. spring-form pan; set aside.

2. Set chocolate aside to cool.

3. Cream butter until softened; gradually add 1 cup confectioners' sugar, beating until fluffy. Gradually add egg yolks, beating well after each addition. Blend in the chocolate and crumbs; set aside.

4. Beat egg whites and salt together until frothy; add remaining sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Beat until rounded peaks are formed (peaks turn over slightly when beaters are slowly lifted upright). Spread egg yolk mixture over beaten egg whites and gently fold together. Turn batter into pan. Cut through batter with a knife or spatula to break large air bubbles.

5. Bake at 350°F about 1 hr., or until cake tester or wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove pan from oven, invert, and allow edges of pan to rest on cooling racks until torte is completely cool. Carefully loosen sides with spatula and remove torte from pan. Frost sides and top with Frosting for Sacher Torte. 12 to 16 servings

Note: Two 9-in. layer-cake pans may be used. Bake at 350°F 35 min.

Frosting for Sacher Torte—Partially melt 3 sq. (3 oz.) semisweet chocolate in top of double boiler over hot (not steaming) water. Remove chocolate from water and stir until completely melted. Add ½ cup unsalted butter and stir until butter is melted. Use while slightly warm.

NEXT TIME you attend the annual banquet of your favorite organization, look around.

At the end of the table is the former school superintendent who entered the ministry. Few of us have two opportunities to serve others. His serene face is evidence of his success.

Near you is a man who was defeated for public office. He fought hard and lost, probably because he has a squeaky voice and doesn't photograph well. How difficult is acceptance of rejection when it results from a public whim?

Over there at the next table is a brilliant professor who has overcome personal tragedy to find peace with himself. How many among us really know the battle he won?

Here's a woman who has everything and nothing. Wealth came after health was gone. Now she can have anything she wants except a strong body, so she wants nothing else.

In a corner of the room sits a man whose well-tailored suit conceals a diseased heart. He and death are face to face, yet not even his friends know this may be his last club dinner. He cuts his roast beef bravely, but his hand shakes.

TWO PLATES AWAY is a grandmother whose world revolves around her grandchildren and whose devotion to them is a flower she wears in delight. But their mother was the child of her late years, and she bore her with a certain shame.

Across the table is the businessman who is as unethical in his office as he is pious on Sunday. And here a housewife who wears a new hat so conspicuously there must be a "Minnie Pearl" price tag still dangling somewhere. And there is the boredom of the old bachelor and, rising over all, the earnest effort of the speaker.

Sometime when your attention wanders from the program, sometime when you've finished your coffee and the organist is still thumping out the dinner music, look around you at the faces you have known so long.

See written there a story more brave and beautiful, more tragic and tedious, more painful and poignant than any you have ever read.
